NAZIS SEA ESCAPE JARS BRITISH; SINGAPORE DEFENDERS FIGHT ON

NAVY REVEALS BIG SUCCESSES AT 2 JAP ISLES

Lists Enemy Losses In Raids of Jan. 31 as 5 Warships, 11 Auxiliary Vessels.

41 PLANES DESTROYED

Punishment Dealt By U. S. Much Higher Than First Reports Indicated.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — The navy's surprise raids on Japanese bases in the Marshall and Gilbert islands proved today to have inflicted even heavier punishment on the enemy than first reports hinted.

The batteries and bombers of Pacific fleet units got these results Jan. 31 in a lightning offensive sweep:

They sank five Japanese warships—one a 17,000-ton converted aircraft carrier.

They sent eleven Japanese auxiliary vessels to the bottom.

They destroyed at least 41 enemy warplanes, either in aerial dogfights or on the ground.

And they plastered destruction all over the important naval and air bases which the Japanese had prepared to threaten the flank of the U. S. supply route to Australia and the southwest Pacific.

The news that five warships had been bagged was a gratifying surprise to the capital, for the initial reports the day after the raid indicated that the only victims of the U. S. fleet task force had been Japanese auxiliary vessels.

Besides the 17,000-ton converted carrier, the Japanese lost a light cruiser, a destroyer and two submarines. The carrier was believed to have a capacity of 25 or more warplanes, and it appeared probable that some of these were lost when the ship was destroyed.

Another gratifying disclosure about the vigorous raid was that a flying admiral directed the operation. Vice-Admiral William F. Halsey, jr., commander of Carrier Division One in the

Shooting Victim Improved, Lutz To File Charges

Learning that the condition of James Wilson, 30, who was critically injured Monday when he was shot in the abdomen at a farm home near Mansfield, was showing improvement for the first time today, Prosecutor Harold Lutz said he would file a charge this afternoon against Willis Harris, 46, accusing him of shooting Wilson with intent to wound.

The prosecutor said he has withheld charges pending a report from General hospital on Wilson's condition. Physician's at the hospital gave Wilson better than an even chance to recover today.

Harris, who has been in bed for six weeks with a broken back, allegedly shot Wilson, a reformatory parolee, with a revolver as the younger man prepared to leave for Mansfield to discuss his working agreement with S. A.

Mansfielder Dies In Fall At Bucyrus

G. C. Merritt, Electrician, Fatally Injured While Working at Plant.

A 25-foot fall from a ladder while working at the new General Electric plant in Bucyrus yesterday claimed the life of Grover C. Merritt, 57-year-old electrician, of 116 South Glenn avenue, Mansfield.

Attendants at Bucyrus City hospital where he died shortly after arrival said he suffered a fractured skull.

Merritt, who had resided in Mansfield for the past six years, was employed by the Electric Power and Equipment company of Columbus. He was installing fire signal equipment in the furnace room of the plant when the accident occurred.

He was alone at the time. Workmen in the plant heard his cries and found him lying on the concrete floor.

Born in Fedville, Tenn., Merritt served as a sergeant of a medical detachment during World War I. He was in the service from July 25, 1917 until Feb. 22, 1919. He was a member of the Electrical workers union and recording secretary of Local B 688.

Surviving are his widow, Margaret; a daughter, Mrs. Paul Oakes, and a grandson, all of Mansfield.

The body was removed to the Geiger Funeral home here.

Funeral services will be held at St. Peter's Catholic church at 9:30 a. m. Monday. Msgr. R. C. Goebel will officiate. Burial will be in Mansfield Catholic cemetery.

URGES MOVE

Willkie Would Put MacArthur In Charge of All Forces.

BOSTON —(INS)— Elevation of General Douglas MacArthur to supreme command of all fighting forces of the United States was urged today by Wendell Willkie, 1940 Republican presidential standard bearer.

"Bring home General MacArthur," Willkie said at the Lincoln's birthday dinner of the Middlesex Club, "place him at the very top. Keep bureaucratic and political hands off him. Give him the responsibility and power of co-ordinating all the armed forces of the nation to their most effective use. Put him in supreme command of our armed forces under the president."

Willkie also advised the Republican party to adopt a wartime policy based on an independent positive program rather than the traditional minority party policy of "continual negation."

Bellville Plans 'Community Bus' to Solve Tire Problem

Bellville had taken steps today to solve its own tire and transportation problem by attempting to sign up residents of the village area who work in Mansfield to ride one or more special buses to work in the morning and back at night.

The village Chamber of Commerce has mailed questionnaires to commuters who live in Bellville and Jefferson township, asking them if they would be willing to pay from 25 to 45 cents daily for a round-trip ride to Mansfield.

Workers also are being questioned about the hours they must leave home for work and when they want to return at night.

Dr. K. M. Willson, member of the Chamber of Commerce committee in charge of the plan, estimated that at least 200 persons from the Bellville area work in Mansfield and will be faced shortly with the problem of getting tires to keep their automobiles operating.

Dr. Willson said the Chamber of Commerce did not plan to charter a bus or buy one, but hoped to go to the Fairlick Stages, Inc., which regularly operates buses through the village, with enough prospective customers signed up to influence the company to revise its schedule or place one or more extra buses in service between Bellville and Mansfield.

The questionnaires must be returned to the Chamber of Commerce this week and the organization plans to present its plan to the bus company within a few days.

"Most of the workers have tires now, but one of these days they are going to have to do something about transportation, Dr. Willson said.

JAPS REACH SUBURBS OF ISLAND CITY

Seize Most of Sources of Water In Continuing Fight For Fortress.

SHELLING INCREASES

Japs Back Down on Earlier Claims, Say They Put Pincers on Navy Base.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—The Union Jack waved through another of its evidently numbered days over Singapore city today but Japanese shock forces, alternating between inching crawls and swift, almost suicidal rushing from cover to cover, had reached suburban Tanglin, little more than two miles from the heart of the metropolis.

That was the position on the southern sector of the 14-mile battle line, the closest threat to Singapore city, but on the central part of the contracting front the Japanese appeared to have seized most of the city's sources of water—the central reservoirs.

But the enemy had not yet won Singapore city, though most of the island was in his hands.

This much was evident in the admissions contained in the last two Singapore communiques, the latest being timed at 5 p. m. (6 a. m. Eastern War time).

Singapore announced that the Japanese had stepped up their air and artillery pressure with frequent shelling, high level, low level and dive-bombing attacks on forward positions and the city itself. Large formations of Japanese planes assailed Singapore directly.

"Obviously the Japanese are not yet in Singapore town or they would not be bombing or shelling it," a British commentator said. "The positions mentioned in the communique indicate some slight withdrawals by our forces since yesterday."

The Japanese, unofficially backing down from enthusiastic claims that Singapore was captured and all but mopped up, admitted their spearhead was still two miles from the heart of the city and reported that a pincer movement was under

3 Battleships Run Gauntlet Of Bombs, Guns

Flight of Scharnhorst, Gneisenau, and Prinz Eugen New Blow to Churchill Government; Hits on German Craft Claimed In Running Battle.

BULLETIN

DOVER—(UP)—Channel coast residents said today they heard a continuous drone of heavy bombers going out to sea all night long and believed the British planes carried out night attacks on the Scharnhorst, Gneisenau and Prinz Eugen.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—Three of Germany's mightiest warships, in daring defiance of Britain's air and sea power, have made a sensational escape from their French drydock prison, racing to freedom through the English channel under the fire of British planes, ships and shore guns.

It was a gamble that risked freedom for the 26,000-ton battleships Scharnhorst and Gneisenau and the 10,000-ton cruiser Prinz Eugen, to rove the seas again as lethal raiders of Britain's commerce, against their loss as the price of failure.

And the British ruefully acknowledged this black Friday that, so far at least, the Germans had engineered a shrewd and skillful coup under the muzzles of Britain's home defenders.

By now, the Scharnhorst, Gneisenau and Prinz Eugen probably have reached the security of Helgoland bight, racing home at 20 knots ahead of the slower ships which guarded them through the channel.

It was from the sky, however, that the German warships' greatest protection came, not only from concealing snow and fog but, perhaps even more, from swarms of Nazi fighter planes, shuttling out in relays from the French coast to keep protection constantly over them.

Briton's dismay that their rule of home waters could be so daringly and successfully challenged was voiced swiftly in demands for explanations which may cause new difficulties for Prime Minister Churchill's government on top of the bad news from the Pacific and Mediterranean.

The first word of the German warships' dash came from two Spitfires on reconnaissance. They eluded 12 Messerschmitts to race home and spread the alarm.

Quickly, a flight of torpedo planes guarded by 50 fighters was winging toward the French coast and from then on the British sped out their own airforces to the attack.

Germany won, for she shook

JAP BOMBERS RAKE OWN MEN

Cause Many Casualties Among Nipponese Infantry on Luzon Island.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—Japanese dive bombers have aided Gen. Douglas MacArthur's beleaguered forces on Batan Peninsula by mistakenly bombing and machine gunning their own infantry, the war department revealed today. This attack by their own planes caused "heavy casualties" to the Japanese group forces.

This twist in the Philippine fighting occurred as Japanese forces stepped up the tempo of their patrol actions against MacArthur's defenders of Batan, apparently in an effort to feel out spots for the contemplated all-out effort to force them off the Peninsula. There was "aggressive enemy patrol action."

"Japan dive bombers mistakenly bombed and machine-gunned their own infantry, with heavy casualties," the war department said in its communique No. 105, outlining the situation as reported by MacArthur up to 9:30 a. m. EWT.

Victims of the erroneous Japanese attack were elements of the 122nd Japanese regiment of Gen. Akira Nara's 65th division.

Watch Your Step! Today's 'Unlucky' Friday, the 13th

Black cats, broken mirrors, ladders and various other superstitions took on an added meaning today as Mansfielders eyed the calendar and saw it was Friday the 13th.

Incidentally, Mansfielders will have three Friday the 13ths to go through this year, others coming in March and November.

Thirteen has always been considered an unlucky day for some obscure reason and when coupled with Friday, it's said to be pure dynamite. The superstition that Friday is an unlucky days, says the encyclopedia, may be traced to the Christian commemoration of the crucifixion of Christ, which took place on that day.

If you got through the day to this point without any trouble, perhaps the best thing to do is to go home immediately, throw some salt over your left shoulder, look at the moon through a mirror and go to bed, hoping that lightning or a windstorm won't strike.

HONOR 75 BOYS

N-J Carriers Will Receive Awards Tomorrow.

U. S. government defense service bars will be awarded 75 News-Journal carrier boys in reward for their services in selling approximately $13,500 worth of defense bonds and stamps at a public ceremony tomorrow at 12:30 p. m. in front of the Mansfield postoffice.

The carrier boys, who have taken orders for bonds and stamps from subscribers on their routes, will receive their awards from U. S. navy, army and marine recruiting officers stationed. Paul M. Eliot, chairman of the local defense savings committee, will give a short talk.

Friends and relatives will see 61 of the boys get bronze service bars for selling at least 187 stamps each, and 13 more get silver service bars for the sale of 562 stamps. Robert Kass, 139 West Third street, will receive three gold service bars for getting orders for $5,000 worth of bonds due to a 100 per cent bond payroll deduction plan at the Art Rattan company. The ceremony was postponed last Saturday because of inclement weather.

BRITISH JARRED BY ESCAPE OF 3 NAZI SHIPS

loose the three ships which had lain in refuge at Brest for months as stationary targets for the RAF's bombs. Her cost was 18 fighter planes and the warships were damaged by bomb, shell or torpedo—how gravely remains to be learned.

The British failed because they lost 42 planes and suffered some casualties in their destroyers without bottling the long, narrow channel and delivering a blow in home waters which would have been their greatest naval triumph of the war.

But the full story still is to be told of the great land, sea and air battle which started after the German warships nosed out of the Nazi-occupied French harbor at the western mouth of the channel and headed eastward toward the Dover strait, the open water of the North sea and the safety of a home port.

The preliminary admiralty-air ministry communique said today:

"When last sighted, the enemy had become separated and were making for ports in the Helgoland bight.

"Further reports from our forces are awaited."

Evidently having waited cautiously for a day when snow and sleet shrouded the strait, the Nazis were ready yesterday to take their risk in daylight, giving their great ships the protection also of naval forces and air fighters.

From the time they were met by British air and then naval units until they scattered at the east end of the channel, a furious battle was waged with everything on both sides from little minesweepers to the great batteries on opposite shores.

It was a battle fought in misty confusion, under leaden skies which often blotted out the fierce duel of big and little ships, wave-skimming torpedo planes and wheeling, diving bombers and fighters.

Although the shores of France are visible in clear weather from the English cliffs across Dover strait, the joint communique said the weather was so thick the enemy ships were not once spotted from this shore.

It said the bomber command reported hits on all three of the fleeing Nazi warships.

At least six torpedo hits were believed to have been scored but there was no indication of their effectiveness.

The British sea and air commands in their first account said the enemy squadron was heavily escorted by fighter aircraft.

It continued:

"Visibility at this time varied from three to five miles. . . . On receipt of this report, coastal craft of the Dover naval command immediately were sent out to attack, together with Swordfish aircraft of the fleet air arm, strongly escorted by RAF fighters.

"Attacks by both Swordfish and coastal aircraft were pressed close to home in the face of intense fire from all vessels and opposition by enemy fighters.

"Reports indicate the Swordfish scored at least one hit on one of the enemy heavy ships and one of the motor torpedo boats also claimed a possible hit, but owing to the intense barrage and the heavy smoke screen put up by the enemy it was impossible to see the results . . . Six Swordfish aircraft are missing. . . .

"During this time the Dover defenses opened fire at extreme range, which was replied to by enemy short batteries . . ."

RAF planes made repeated attacks, the communique went on, and, although low clouds obscured the results, preliminary coastal command reports credit three torpedo hits to Beaufort planes and the bomber command "said that each of the main enemy units was hit by bombs.

"The attacks were pressed home with the greatest determination in the face of heavy anti-aircraft fire and strong fighter opposition, which resulted in the loss of 20 of our bombers . . . and 16 fighters.

"Fifteen enemy fighters were destroyed by our fighter escort and at least three more by the bombers themselves. . . ."

At 3:34 p. m.—when the nautical hare-and-hound chase had been thrashing through the channel for more than four and one-half hours—British destroyers sighted the quarry and the communique said, "went into the attack in the face of very heavy bombing . . . and also heavy gunfire from all the enemy's surface ships. . . .

"Our destroyers took advantage of a rain squall to press the attacks home. . . . There is reason to believe that at least one torpedo hit was obtained. Casualties on our destroyers was not heavy."

One question Britons were sure to ask their war leaders was how the Scharnhorst, Gneisenau and Prinz Eugen could put to sea in trim for a perilous challenge to Britain's sea might after having sat through more than 100 air attacks on Brest of which they presumably were the specific targets of 66. The last was Wednesday—just a day before they sallied forth.

Authoritative sources pointed out that they were small targets in a large space and that the harbor of Brest was singularly defensible against aerial torpedo attacks which caused such havoc to the Italian fleet at Taranto.

There has been doubt among informed observers for some time that the ships ever had been critically damaged.

Another likely question was why Hitler took such great chances to get the ships out of Brest. The consensus was that he hoped to use the hard-hitting surface ships on the Atlantic supply lanes.

A second possibility, that the three warships are to be taken circuitously to the Mediterranean for an expected major drive there, also was given some credence.

A third theory was that Germany is projecting an invasion attempt against Britain, but this was viewed as less plausible than the others.

aircraft battle force, commanded the well-balanced force on aircraft carriers, cruisers and destroyers which carried out the attacks.

To the capital this was an indication that officers of the air arm were being entrusted with responsibility in important missions requiring synchronized air and surface operations.

The navy department issued a lengthy communique last night on the results of the raids which hit Japanese strongholds on Roi, Kwajalein, Wotje, Taroa and Jaluit islands in the Marshall group and Makin in the Gilberts.

The report listed American losses as five planes for the entire operation, and one cruiser damaged by a small bomb. The original report placed the plane losses at 11, but the navy said this apparent discrepancy would be cleared up later.

Although the additional success of the raiding sweep was welcome, it could not alter the grim feeling which weeks of almost uninterrupted reverses have created in a capital already braced for further setbacks.

Even before the navy communique was issued last night, there was additional bad news from the Philippines. The war department announced that the Japanese, driving south from Luzon, had occupied Masabate, seventh largest island in the commonwealth. The island has one of the best airports in the Philippines and contains a large gold mine.

Masabate lies about midway between Luzon and Mindanao, the main southern island which the Japanese already have seized and are converting into a base for their drive toward the Dutch Indies. By establishing themselves on Masabate, the invaders have closed all but 200 miles of the gap between Luzon and their southern Mindanao base.

The war department also disclosed that the invaders had forbade publications of any sort in the occupied territory without Japanese permission. All printed matter was made subject to censorship.

In its detailed report on the Marshall-Gilbert raids, the navy gave this account of the havoc that was wrought:

Roi island—Ten planes, two hangars, ammunition dumps, radio building, fuel dumps, and all storage and warehouses destroyed.

Kwajalein island — Aircraft carrier, light cruiser, destroyer, three large fleet tankers, one cargo vessel, two submarines and two large seaplanes destroyed, other vessels damaged. Four U. S. scout bombers lost.

Wotje Atoll—Four 5,000-ton cargo ships, three smaller ships, two hangars, oil and gasoline storage, shops, storehouses, two anti-aircraft batteries and five coastal guns destroyed.

Taroa island — Twenty-three planes, two hangars, fuel tanks and industrial buildings destroyed. One U. S. scout bomber lost; U. S. cruiser hit by small bomb.

Jaluit island—One auxiliary vessel badly damaged.

Makin islands—Two patrol planes destroyed, one auxiliary vessel badly damaged.

Shipboard Rites for Attack Casualties

PEARL HARBOR, T. H.—(AP)—Men of the U. S. fleet who died in the successful attack on Japanese bases in the Marshall and Gilbert islands, were at rest in a navy cemetery today after farewell shipboard rites.

Hundreds of white clad officers and men gathered around a portable altar, with banks of flowers in the background, while the chaplain read from the scriptures and asked God's blessing for the deceased and their comrades left to carry on.

(The navy has made no announcement on the number of men lost in the raid on the Japanese-held islands.)

Sheriff Robinson said today he learned from Harris' physician that the former guard also is recovering and that the casts would soon be removed from his injured back. The sheriff was unable to say, however, when Harris could be brought to Mansfield for questioning in connection with the case.

JAPS REACH SUBURBS OF ISLAND CITY

way against the big Seletar naval base on the northern shore.

Domei (Japanese news agency) correspondent at the front on the 206-square mile island, once Britain's Gibraltar of the Orient, admitted the British imperial garrison had made the battle of Singapore a fight to the death—that the defenders were "determined to die in order to live up to the prestige of the British empire."

The facility with which the Singapore communique was delivered in London, here to be made public, indicated the measure of control Singapore maintained over her communications.

In the land fighting the heaviest engagements were under way about MacRitchie reservoir in the central section of the island.

Most of the fortress island has been overrun by Japanese invaders from the Malayan mainland, across Johore strait, and no one could say for certain how long the Union Jack would fly over Singapore city.

The communique follows:

"Severe enemy pressure has been maintained on the western front during the last 24 hours and his attack is being supported by increased air and artillery forces.

"Shelling today has been frequent on forward areas and on Singapore town.

"He (the enemy) has also carried out low level and dive-bomb attacks on our forward areas and there have been many many high level bombing attacks in the town area by large formations of aircraft.

"Fighting now is taking place about Ang Mo Kio village, MacRitchie reservoir and Pasir Panjang."

The communique, by placing the central fighting scene at Ang Mo Kio, indicated the sources of most of Singapore's remaining water supply had been seized by the enemy, for the reservoirs lie west of that village which is four or five miles from the center of Singapore. The communique also noted that one of the reservoirs was a point of battle.

The fact that the British imperials were still fighting at Pasir Panjang indicated that the nearest threat to Singapore city was a spearhead that had outflanked the Pasir Panjang forces by about three miles.

The Japanese salient had been thrust clear to inland Tanglin, barely two miles west of the heart of Singapore city, according to last night's communique, while Pasir Panjang, on the shore, is about five miles west of the city.

Despite desperate counter-attacks by British imperial troops the situation on Singapore island appeared increasingly critical, with the Japanese hurling more men and planes into action in an attempt to smash resistance regardless of cost.

Last night's Singapore communique, however, said the British were holding a line extending from the naval base on Johore strait southward to the center of the island and thence to the coast through Tanglin, which is barely two miles west of the heart of Singapore city.

This appeared to indicate that the defenders still were in possession of the naval base, from which all warships were withdrawn many days ago, and that they probably held a part of the vital reservoirs north of the city.

The communique described fighting as heavy all along the line, with the Japanese employing medium tanks to support their infantry, and declared that the invaders were stepping up their air assaults.

The communique reported, however, that the British forces had successfully counterattacked the Japanese left flank, apparently to relieve direct pressure on the city of Singapore.

This news caused only a faint flutter of hope here, for it was generally regarded as merely a delaying action.

The German radio reiterated this morning assertions that the Japanese were in complete control of Singapore city itself, including the port area, and that street fighting had ceased.

Nevertheless, the Nazi announcer said heavy fighting was under way around individual defense fortifications and that Japanese artillery was engaged in a violent duel with the guns of Changi port on the eastern tip of the island.

Japanese broadcasts heard here said only that the Japanese forces had entered Singapore city and told of sharp fighting to the north.

Advices from Australia, meanwhile, showed that the desperate situation in Singapore was causing increasing concern there. The Australian parliament was summoned to meet Feb. 20.

In Sydney the Morning Herald, taking a grim view of the outlook, said:

"Singapore has been to Australia what the Maginot line was to France, and in the hour of crisis it has no less tragically failed."

military agencies which may be considered unessential.

Mr. Roosevelt told in a press conference he had sent a directive to agency heads ordering them to "survey every operational activity and determine those employes who may be promptly released for employment in other agencies" more directly involved in the war.

He pointed out that the extension of the work week to 44 hours in most government agencies had greatly augmented the man-hours of federal employment. But agencies which were adequately staffed on the basis of the 39-hour week, and which are not now confronted with an increase in work programs, are now overstaffed, he added.

"It is imperative that this manpower be immediately capitalized and effectively channeled into defense work," the directive said.

WOULD REMOVE DEFENSE FRILLS

Dean of Congress Amazed Over Protests From Public.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Senator Norirs (Ind-Neb.) proposed today that the senate take immediate steps to eliminate "frills" from the civilian deefnse effort and to repeal congressional pension legislation—two points of controversy he said were underwining the faith o fthe American people in their government in a critical time.

Norris, dean of congress, said he was amazed at the public indignation which had been aroused by the controversy over the employment of entertainers to direct certain activities of the office for civilian defense.

Likewise, he said he seldom had received such violent and sustained protests as had been occasioned by congress' action in voting to open government pension rolls to its members.

CHAPTER II

"He's very sophisticated."

"Think so? You girls go for that, don't you? I don't know. . . . Most of us on the cruise thought he was a conceited ass. What are the good shows in town? Just name them."

It was one o'clock when she let herself in the dark apartment. For a few minutes she stood quite still in the foyer and stroked her forehead that ached from loud music and meaningless conversation. They had danced miles and still Bob's favorite subject, himself, had continued as a record played over and over. She had told him she would be too busy to see him again.

After a shower she put on a comfortable housecoat and sank wearily in the bedroom chair, her body tired, her mind acutely alive as she reviewed the events of the day, saving until the last that sharply etched memory of Max Worthington. She could not dismiss the rushing current of high feelings his presence had caused, but she could, she thought, attribute a portion of them to the excitement of the day.

Perhaps if she saw him again he would be quite an ordinary person and not a man who had caused sparks to fly in her mind. If she saw him again. . . . That wasn't likely. "But I believe I shall see him again," she thought. "Will he meet the ship when it returns in two weeks? I told Phyllis I'd meet her. Was the friend he saw off a man or a woman? When I think it was a woman, I'm jealous."

Why did this day of all days cause her to open a bag of memories and peer into it, seeing herself the second daughter of a moderately-successful business man and the pretty, gentlewoman who was her mother and a home on a tree-lined suburban street in the near-south city of Clinton? An uneventful childhood, to be sure, with Harriet, her sister, four years older than she, and the children in the neighborhood. School, Sunday school, parties, lessons and summers at the seashore until she persuaded her easily-peruaded parents that she preferred summers in art schools to sun and sand swimming.

No stark dramas had punctuated the securiay of that life. There was only the drama in her, the seeking, the longing for that which she could not quite explain but which was relieved a little by the pictures created by her talented hands.

Harriet had left college in her second year to marry Larry Summers whom she had loved since they had been in high school together and had proceeded promptly to have two healthy, handsome sons, timing the last so that his birth coincided with Judith's decision to come to New York.

She went home frequently and her parents came to New York to see her, reconciled now to her leaving home and touchingly proud of her. But to them, she knew, and to Harriet her life in New York was but an interlude, the wayward birdling testing her wings until she met a "nice" young man like Larry and lived, as Harriet lived, in a world of bridge, mortgages and baby formulas.

They reckoned wrong, she thought. For she had created for herself a satisfactory life and her work in the advertising department of a large department store was absorbingly interesting, her co-workers congenial, her salary adequate. Her circle of friends was ever increasing and there was a challenge in each new day met with youthful courage and optimism and excellent health. Perhaps she would be a trifle smug, she had thought recently, if she had not been acutely conscious of a lack an emptiness, the old longing for something she could not define. It was as though she were waiting for something miraculous to happen to her.

She went to sleep finally, knowing that her unwillingness to accept sleep sooner came from an impatience to see Max Worthington again.

The next morning, Sunday morning, Judith awoke, missing Phyllis' red head in the next bed. After preparing breakfast, she ate alone at the card table beside the broad window, missing, too Phyllis' rather aimless but usually diverting conversation. The part-time colored maid, the good-natured Fannie, who wasted time but never her energy, came three evenings a week to prepare dinner. The remaining evenings she and Phyllis had dined out or, with some confusion in the tiny kitchen, had prepared their own meals.

That afternoon she was working at her drawing board when Emily came, her pretty face aglow, her brown eyes bright after a brisk walk in the crisp autumn air, her brown hair perfect beneath an absurd little black hat. Tall but delicate-looking, she wore a black suit and her prettiness, her sweetness, her femininity livened a room shadowy in early twilight.

Daughter of a prolific, gregarious, mid-western family, Emily exuded friendliness and generosity of self. Unlike Phyllis, who carried in her the bitterness of an unhappy childhood and who was a little selfish, careless and extravagant as a result, Emily was uninhibited, unselfish and a naive believer in the face value of the people she met. Judith had often thought that Phyllis had an indescribable charm but that Emily's was quite definite and that while you had to guess what was in Phyllis' mind, Emily's was an open book as honest and simple as her background.

Conscientious in her work, Emily might be deceived, but she would never deceive others. Judith loved them both, understood them though there had been many times when Phyllis' irritating habits of losing her key and borrowing her clothes without asking had made her think that Emily would have been the wiser choice to live with. They had, in fact, asked Emily to share the apartment in the beginning, but she had declined, preferring the less expensive, less pleasant existence in the staid hotel for women.

Emily's lips, brushing Judith's cheek, were cool and soft.

"Working! You work too hard, dear, but I won't stay long to interrupt you. I should have called. But I needed a walk and it's such a lovely afternoon. I miss Phyllis already, don't you? I feel we've got to talk about her or we'll feel she's dead. I hope she's happy today. She looked so lovely yesterday."

Judith said, "I looked for you after they sailed, but I couldn't find you."

"We didn't stay. It was such a mob." There was laughter in her warm eyes as she sat in the chintz-covered chair and pulled off her immaculate white gloves. "I wanted you to meet Tim, but I never got around to introducing you. Phyllis and Ames were the whole show . . . naturally."

"Tim? He's new, isn't he?" You're in love, Emily . . . I've seen you romantic over several young men but not seriously so. A few weeks later you'd tell me they'd done something to disappoint you. Phyllis wasn't like that. She said that until she met Ames she had liked men only for the fun of being with them and dining and dancing in nice places and for their thoughtfulness in sending her flowers and gifts."

"Yes. Sort of—brand-new. Oh, let me tell you about him, Judith! I met him at the Alexanders in Connecticut two weeks ago and he's been keeping the wires busy ever since calling me. He lives near the Alexanders and they're all very good friends. Tim's family is very rich. Tim is an only son and he's in Wall Street with his father. Judith, his car is magnificent and his home—we drove by it last Sunday—is a show place. He's Harvard and all the better things of life. I wish he weren't. I'd like him just as much if he weren't. You saw him—tall and dark and handsome with mischief in his eyes. He makes me laugh, he sends me orchids and I'm—I'm in a dizzy whirl."

And you're not frightened? Judith thought: No, only happy, living for this moment and the next. You can't see a precipice with a young man like Tim because young men like Tim don't often marry girls like you, Emily, for all your worth. They like to play with you and take you dancing and make cautious love to you . . . but they don't marry you. Girls like you are sweet memories to young men like Tim in later years.

But she said, smiling slowly, "It sounds very exciting."

"It is! And he's so glad I'm leaving the hotel and coming in with you. My family is, too. Mother thinks I'm undernourished . . and she can't imagine how anyone who doesn't own a washing machine and a back yard can possibly be clean. I can't wait until Christmas to go home."

"I want to go home next weekend. You're coming in on Wednesday, aren't you?"

"Yes. Tim's going to bring me and my things. You'll meet him then. You'll like him."

"Ask him to dinner. Fannie will be here on Wednesday. Tell him he doesn't have to spend the evening in just because he comes for dinner."

Emily said, "He's so restless and energetic I don't think he spends many evenings in." She laughed. "I've done nothing but talk about myself and Tim! But he's driven everything else out of my mind, Judith. I can't remember things. It's unreal and it isn't. When I'm with him, it's the realest thing I've ever known." She smiled. "You look so lovely and superior sitting there while I rave on like a romantic school girl."

Superior? No, Judith thought. Not that. Never that. But she was seeing more clearly than Emily, because her emotions were not involved. Max . . . His face, arrogant, sprang before her as though it had been waiting for her to summon it. The rather close-cropped fair hair, the finely-cut mouth, the immense physical power of him had the effect, briefly, of uprooting her own emotions . . . She thought, I won't tell Emily about him. There's nothing to tell except how he made me feel.

Emily gathered up her purse and gloves. "I know you're dying to get back to work and, Judith, I appreciate so much your asking me to come in with you even though I can't pay as much as Phyllis paid. I'll try to make it up by being useful and not getting in your way. I'm going to love having a kitchen to putter around in! Wait'll you've eaten one of my meals! Well—see you Wednesday."

"I'll get your key. What time on Wednesday?"

"I'm leaving the office a few hours early and I'll probably be settled here when you come home. And if you'd rather not have Tim . . ."

"I'll love having him. I want to meet him."

"Tim instead of Ames."

"I'll ask Sid. We'll make it a foursome."

All at once the room was dark. Turning on lamps, Judith went to the bedroom and called up Sid Biddison, an old friend from Clinton now working in New York. Sid was a mild, pleasant young man who enjoyed concerts and the theater and books. Safe and unexciting, but never a bore, he would drop in at the apartment at his leisure, and Judith could always depend on him to accept an invitation and to fit in nicely with all types of people.

Sid said he'd be delighted to come for dinner Wednesday evening. Judith returned again to her drawing board in the living-room. How neutral Sid would seem in comparison with Tim! And while Emily and Tim were going out, she and Sid would have another of their long conversational evenings which fortunately never tired her. Because Sid could not afford to take her where Tim would take Emily she must avoid an embarrassing situation by making it clear at once that Emily and Tim were to go their way unaccompanied.

The telephone rang. She answered it.

"Judith Barth?"

Not for an instant did she doubt . . . The clear, precise tones of that demanding voice were the same she had heard yesterday . . . It was Max. It couldn't be anyone else.

"Yes."

"Max Worthington, who was very happy to find you in the telephone directory."

His words were spoken slowly as though he were weighing them carefully. He was calm and she knew that no sudden impulse had sent him to a telephone, but that he had planned hours before to call her.

She said, "I'm very happy that I'm in the telephone directory."

He chuckled. "That could be taken two ways, but I'll take it in the way complimentary to me. I thought of you last night and wished I had had the courage to take you away to an evening much pleasanter than the one you were bound for. At any rate, I'm putting in an early bid for Friday evening. You're having dinner with me, Judith."

"Am I?"

He laughed. "You resent being told? Well?"

"Very well. Dinner with you on Friday." Had anything been planned for Friday? She couldn't remember.

Max said, "I hope Robert Kennedy served his purpose—for us. He hasn't lived in vain. Good night, Judith."

"Good night." She added, "Max"—too late for him to hear it.

She replaced the telephone slowly, thinking, "Who are you? What are you, Max Worthington, that your voice makes me lightheaded and helpless? It's ridiculous. You're not the only attractive man I've ever known. But here I stand foolishly shaken, wondering about you, wondering why Friday is such a long way off.

When she looked in the mirror, she saw with surprise that her eyes were as Emily's had been that afternoon—bright and warm—with laughter in them. How could she judge Emily when she, Judith, might be heading for a precipice? Running toward it. . . . She thought, "It's the not knowing . . . If only you could know and skip the pages to the last page. But you can't. You have to live it."

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 13, 1942.

Now's the time to be seeing "the first robin."

Let's hope that at some time in the future what we are going through now will not be recalled as "the good old days."

With vests eliminated, where are men to carry pencils, pen, matches, stamps, small change, bus tokens, memo book, membership cards, clippings, and other miscellany?

Register In 20-45 Age Bracket

ANOTHER big job for volunteer workers comes this week-end and through Monday, the time set for registration of all unregistered men between the military ages of 20 and 45 years.

The Saturday and Sunday afternoon registration hours have been arranged for convenience of those who may be engaged in war production and possibly absent from the city on Monday, which is the regular registration day, with hours extending from 7 a. m. to 9 p. m.

This will be the third registration since the start of selective service as a part of national pre-war activities, but the first since actual participation of the United States in war against the Axis powers, and it is therefore surrounded by an atmosphere of greater seriousness than marked preceding registrations—also with keener realization of the issues involved.

Age requirements for this registration extend from 20 years to 44 years inclusive, which means youths who attained twentieth anniversary of birth on or before December 31, 1941, and men who have not attained the forty-fifth anniversary on or before February 16, 1942.

Persons already listed in one of the previous registrations are not required to register again but the state headquarters of Selective Service suggests: "If any person is in doubt as to whether or not he should register, he should consult the proper registration officials and register if they deem it advisable."

It is explained that no questionnaires will be given registrants when they register, nor will they be required at that time to undergo a physical examination. Each will, however, be given a registration certificate which must be kept in his personal possession at all times and shown at request of authorized persons.

It should also be understood that so-called "conscientious objectors" are not excused from registration and are subject to arrest and penalty for neglect or refusal to register under the Selective Service Act.

Sensible To Start Schools Later

NOT UNTIL after several small children, on their way to school in 8 o'clock War time darkness, had been injured on Cleveland streets, did that city start to seriously consider the advisability, and practicability of starting school sessions a half hour or so later.

Cleveland, somewhat like Mansfield, is on the western fringe of the Eastern time zone, and, whatever the hour may be called, there's no sense in requiring children to be in school before daylight.

If 8 o'clock is to be called 9 o'clock (or even 10 o'clock), for wartime purposes, that's perfectly all right—but as the sun's rising and setting is not yet controlled from Washington—the sensible apportionment of daylight hours to daytime tasks is still necessary, and schools hours of young children quite definitely require daylight placement for safety and efficiency.

This was wisely foreseen by Mansfield school authorities and the board of education, with later starting time in all public schools scheduled from the start, and this city therefore avoided the confusion and dangers with which some less foresighted cities are now coping.

Drunks Reveal Themselves

THE "obviously intoxicated" woman who shouted "Heil Hitler" in a New York cafe the other night, and who, a few minutes later bit and kicked Dorothy Thompson, well-known writer, was behaving in a style typical of "obvious intoxication."

With the alcoholic removal of restraints common to sobriety the woman's "heiling" of Hitler merely revealed a loyalty that she would probably hesitate to express openly when sober, and by biting and kicking another woman she evidenced the thinness of the veneer of civilization she had been able to acquire.

Suggestion: If you know anything that you realize shouldn't be talked about, either in family, business or military matters, stay sober.

Exchange Defense Stamps for Bonds

REPORTS from a number of cities are to the effect that some purchasers of defense stamps are already cashing them instead of turning them into bonds, as is intended.

Most people will understand that no good purpose is served by buying defense stamps and cashing them soon afterward—in fact this involves waste of paper, effort and bookkeeping costs which results in a loss to the government.

It should be explained to those who do not already understand, that the provision for cashing defense bonds and stamps is intended only to relieve distressed buyers in cases of illness, unemployment or other misfortune.

All other buyers of defense stamps are expected to turn them in for bonds and retain the bonds at least for the duration of war—preferably for the full ten-year period.

Attack Necessary To Victory

"VICTORY is with the offensive," as William L. Shirer, author of "Berlin Diary," warns the American people. Merely standing fast ends in defeat. Even when at a disadvantage of position and arms, it is necessary to fight aggressively. Our chief enemies, he says, are not Germany and Japan, but boredom and complacency.

Theodore Roosevelt had a phrase for this state of mind. He denounced men who "mean well, but mean well feebly." In times like these, particularly, men of good will must mean well powerfully. They must "pack a wallop." They must meet force quickly with superior force. The important thing now is attack, attack, attack!

Americans particularly should know this. Every good football coach and player knows it.

Quisling has been appointed as premier of Norway—but not by Norwegians.

Congress Places Blame On Public

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

UNITED STATES senators have oratically absolved congress, including both their branch of it, and the house of representatives, of blame for Uncle Sam's lack of preparedness for war when the world conflict finally hit him.

The upper chamber's membership indulged in a voluminous discussion of the matter a few days ago, and it was the consensus that the general public's apathy, rather than the apathy of any particular group of legislators or executives, was responsible for the unsatisfactory state of America's defenses when attacked by the Axis.

Some of the solons did, indeed, concede that they're part of the general public themselves, and, to that extent, they admitted that they were apathetic also. Congress, as a body, though, they reasoned, would have been more on the alert if the generality of its home folk hadn't been so oblivious of the situation's perils.

There was scarcely any dissent from this view in the course of the speechifying referred to, which probably was natural enough; the average lawmaker could hardly have been expected to break in with the contradiction. "Yes, we are, too, to blame."

Some of the congressionally criticized general public, however, having had time to digest Capitol Hill's derogatory remarks concerning it, is beginning to come back with various pungent observations of its own, mostly through the press throughout the country.

Clumsy Management.

The comment's trend is to the effect that the public elects congress to manage for us nationally, and that incidents like those at Pearl Harbor and Guam, and Jap progress in the Philippines, imply it made a very clumsy job of it. To be sure, an occasional commentator recognizes that maybe the public's blameworthy for having chosen poor congressmen. This isn't a concession, though, of much comfort to those that he voters did select.

The argument has been a bit to the navy's advantage, it's true. Naval officialdom's on record as having asked for funds, for Pacific defense purposes, that congress never appropriated. To that extent, the navy folk are in a position to say, "We told you so." They say it at congress' expense, though.

All in all, it rather appears that the legislators made a mistake in trying to wish responsibility off from themselves onto the public and the army and navy commands. They laid themselves open to a good many exceedingly stiff jabs in their own direction.

Partisanly speaking, the Republicans are hoping that the controversy will redound to their benefit on next election day, in November. They want, of course, to transform the present big Democratic congressional majority into a G. O. P. majority in the house of representatives and to make material gains in the senate; there aren't enough seats at stake at that end of the Capitol building in 1942 to give 'em control there, even if they win all of them, which it's a foregone conclusion will be impossible.

They want to gain all they can, anyway.

Their campaign story's fully cooked up already.

G. O. P.'s Story.

Its purport will be that they've been solidly for 100 per cent defense preparation since long before Pearl Harbor, but that the majority, now engaged in trying to stick responsibility off onto the general public, bungled our effort. So their appeal will be to the general public to swing bodily to their side's candidates in November.

David Dudley Field, advocate of the reform in legal procedure, was born at Haddam, Conn., on Feb. 13, 1805, son of the Rev. David Dudley Field, a Congregational clergyman. Cyrus W. Field, whose enterprise made possible the Atlantic cable, and Stephen J. Field, associate justice of the supreme court, were also sons of the elder Field, all of whom won lasting fame.

Man About Manhattan

Dream Came True

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—I believe Mario Sileo would wince if you came right out and asked him, "Do dreams come true?"

You see, it's this way. Mario used to be just like any other kid, playing about the streets of New York. But even then, he tied a string to a dream. He wanted to study law. He wanted to become a great counsel. . . . A counsel for the defense . . .

That was a long time ago—eight, ten years or more. But the string held, and in a sense, the dream has come true.

You can see his picture in the papers and read about him, if you care to. He got to college all right. He knows the law. He passed his bar exams.

So he nailed up his shingle and started in to see what those boyhood dreams of his would bring him up against. Mario Sileo didn't have very long to wait.

He has his work cut out for him. For his first case is a murder case. It's in court now. And it's a case he wants to win more than any other case he will ever have to defend. The defendant—the man who is charged with murder—is his brother.

DRAMA note: Curious how some dramatists work better in double-harness, while others go it alone. Some of our best known playwrights are exclusively collaborators. George S. Kaufman almost never attempts a play single handedly. With his name you will always find others linked—perhaps Edna Ferber, more generally Moss Hart.

I remember a law suit once where a judge asked Kaufman if, during a certain moment in the writing of the play, he had been sitting at a desk. "No sir," replied Kaufman. "I'm the pacer type. I was pacing up and down."

BEN HECHT and Charles MacArthur used to collaborate to their mutual and great good fortune. They should return to that once prosperous and happy partnership. In recent seasons they have been composing dramas without benefit of collaboration, and the results have been dismal. In the last six weeks both MacArthur and Hecht have seen their newest comedies die on the vine.

You go to these plays and you find funny situations and you meet characters zany, wacky, screwy and unpredictable. You tumble to a windfall of farcical situations. But missing is the sure rhythm and sense of real comedy that made "The Front Page" a masterpiece of modern metropolitan writing. Why is this? Perhaps the answer lies in their opposite philosophies. Hecht is somber, even grave at times; MacArthur is buoyant and seems exhilarated by life. For him there is a laugh in everything. While Hecht moans the injustices and the inhumanities of mankind, MacArthur looks for rainbows and ties wisecracks to their tails.

His last play, though a failure ("Johnny On the Spot"), was sheed farce. Hecht's ("Lily of the Valley") was laid in a morgue in which the characters were dead men. There you have the two. Separately, they haven't done well. Together, they were tops.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Payment of Their Debts to Lewis Relieves CIO Unions of Shackles

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—One of the most significant things occurring at the first meeting of the joint AFL-CIO committee with the president was the strong undercurrent of hostility evinced by CIO leaders toward John L. Lewis.

They left no doubt of their resentment and distrust of the iron-handed miner czar.

That CIO chiefs privately were anti-Lewis long has been no secret in labor circles. But only recently have they been so outspoken.

Inside reason for this is that the big CIO unions, once heavily in debt to Lewis, are now out of hock.

For example: When R. J. Thomas became president of the United Auto Workers several years ago, the union owed Lewis' United Mine Workers $165,000. Today, not only has Thomas paid off this debt but the UAW has a surplus of $750,000 in its treasury.

Similarly the powerful Steel Workers once owed Lewis a big chunk of money. Now it, too, is out of debt and has a fat bank balance of its own.

In fact, the only CIO unions still in Lewis' debt are some of the small leftwing-controlled "nuisance" unions that Lewis set up when he was CIO boss and was waging a bitter raiding war against the AFL.

From the current independent attitude of the CIO chiefs it is apparent that much of Lewis' former strength in the organization was based largely on their dependence on the purse-strings which he controlled as ruler of the United Mine Workers. As long as the CIO leaders had to borrow from John L., they had to go along with him whether they liked his policies or not. But now that they are financially free, they are displaying their real feelings.

Labor insiders say that Lewis is aware of this changed relationship and that this was one of the chief reasons for his sudden passion for AFL-CIO peace. Lewis, they say, realized he had lost his hold on the CIO and figured he had a better chance to resume the role of "king maker" in a united AFL-CIO front.

Note—Pro-labor congressional leaders have intimated to CIO President Phil Murray that he would be well-advised not to send Lee Pressman, leftwing CIO general counsel, to Capitol Hill to represent the CIO before committees.

Parlor Pink.

THE press conference at which James M. Landis, executive director of the Office of Civilian Defense, announced the appointment of Melvyn Douglas as head of an OCD arts council, was informal to say the least.

When Landis made the announcement, a reporter asked, "Who's Melvyn Douglas?" Colleagues informed him that Douglas was a popular movie star.

"He's my favorite star," cooed a woman correspondent. "He has played opposite Garbo three times. I thought everybody had heard of him."

"I don't go to the movies," said the newsman, adding, "Mr. Landis, why don't you bring Douglas in here so this young lady can get his autograph."

Landis smiled, but when another reporter asked if Douglas was "one of those parlor pinks?" the OCD chief screwed up his brow.

"You've got me," he replied. "I don't know what a parlor pink is."

Not satisfied with this dodge, the reporter later went to Douglas' office and asked the screen star, "Are you a parlor pink?"

"Well," he said good-naturedly, "so that has come up again? No, I'm just an ordinary fellow trying to get along, and doing what I can to help my country in these troubled times."

Sinking U. S. Tankers.

THE NAVY is being more hush-hush than usual regarding the sinkings of oil tankers off the Atlantic coast. However, here are a few important facts about the situation which are not military secrets.

First fact is encouraging. The tankers sunk were old, small and slow. All of them were twenty years old or over, and the largest, Standard Oil's India Arrow, was 8,327 tons.

On the surface, this would indicate that oil and gasoline losses on the east coast would not be heavy. However, this is not the case. For all of the big, new American tankers have been taken over by the navy. This was under an arrangement whereby the Maritime commission had lent the oil companies around $800,000 per vessel to build fast modern tankers making 19 knots. This is so fast that they can avoid submarines and also keep up with the fleet.

However, these new tankers, built in cooperation with the navy, are now with the fleet.

Heavy Losses.

TWO other factors indicate the importance of the sinkings on the Atlantic coast. One is an announcement made by the British last week that sinkings for the entire Atlantic, including the east coast of the United States, had been heavier in January than ever before. The other is the fact that comprehensive rationing of oil and gasoline for the east coast is now a certainty. In other words, oil and tanker losses have been very heavy.

Reason for these losses is easy to understand. It requires no official explanation. As everyone knows, especially the enemy, we had to rush various kinds of shipping to the Pacific to replace the damage done at Pearl Harbor. Also we had a large number of warships busy convoying vessels across the North Atlantic.

Hence we have been caught short-handed on the east coast.

Note:—Most people don't realize it, but the oil shortage along the Atlantic could be relieved considerably by a curtailment of tank car rates on gasoline and fuel oil. Last fall the rail rates were reduced on crude oil but not on gasoline or fuel oil.

Voice of America.

THE GERMAN public is now getting U. S. radio programs over standard wave lengths for the first time since the fall of France in May, 1940.

For close to two years, the only way the U. S. could reach Nazi-dominated Europe direct by radio was via short-wave. As shore-wave sets are scarce there, American broadcasts had a very limited audience. Listening could cost a listener's life.

But now Coordinator of Information Donovan has arranged with the British Broadcasting system, to broadcast American counter-propaganda programs.

These are written in French, Italian, German, though American in style, tempo and content; are telephoned across the Atlantic to BBS, which rebroadcasts to Europe over standard wave lengths.

Although these programs have been under way only a short time, it is significant that the various Nazi "Lord Haw-Haws" consider them important enough to begin a campaign of violent denunciation.

Note.—British Broadcasting officials say Donovan's counter-propaganda is the best job they have heard.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—The Capitol in Wartime:

The federal girls are having a hard time of it. First there was Rep. Earl (Early-to-Bed) Wilson, the one-time Indiana high school principal, who wanted them to heed a 10 p. m. curfew on work nights.

Now come the landlords and ladies to say it doesn't make any difference to them whether the girls heed a curfew or don't just so they do it elsewhere than in the rooms they have for rent.

The Defense Housing registry says that although 80 per cent of the new workers pouring into Washington are girls, 70 per cent of the householders listing rooms with the registry say "Only Men Wanted." The general complaint is that the girls are "more trouble"—the specific complaints include that they "take too much time in the bath, wash hose and things in the lavatory, stay home nights and use up electricity, entertain their boy friends in the family living room."

UNOFFICIAL opiners are now saying that the office space situation here will be under control by mid-summer, thanks to the big new war department building abutting Arlington cemetery and the alphabetical temporaries. (They are designated Temporary A, B, C, etc., and if you think they aren't needles in the Washington haystack, try and find them.)

What really has the officials going in circles is the housing situation. That was what primarily was behind the government's moving agencies to other cities and behind the president's "warning to Washington parasites."

Philippine commonwealth employes in Washington, numbering about 25, decided to hold a special defense bond and stamp sales day among themselves and before night had bought $1,000 worth.

THE rumor that any one outside the army and navy is writing the communiques from the Philippines or anywhere else is causing some hearty snickers at war and navy departments.

Short wave messages from all fronts and ships at sea pour into the army and navy here constantly. After decoding, the messages are sorted and all secret information taken out. The communique is then whipped into shape by designated officers, in both cases members of the press relations staff.

The war department communique is generally issued an hour or so before noon; the navy department communique late in the afternoon. There is, however, no set rule about time and special communiques are issued whenever the departments deem it necessary.

Pillow for Baby

USE of a firm hair pillow as a means of minimizing the dangers of infant asphyxia, is suggested by Dr. Louis Pelner of Brooklyn, the current issue of Modern Medicine reports.

The doctor caulions against permitting babies to sleep without pillows and also disapproves of "bottle-feeding babies flat on their backs. A "head up" position will minimize the danger of infant asphyxia, he says, because it reduces the danger of "smothering and aspiration of foreign substances into the larynx."

Because gravity favors the passage of liquid and semi-liquid substances into the esophagus, these causes of "sudden death" can be minimized by keeping a pillow under the infant's head, the doctor believes.

Treasures of Snow

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

HAST thou entered into the treasures of the snow?" God asked his faithful servant, Job.

And though men have studied snow for centuries, it still remains one of the common miracles of winter time.

That snow appears, the temperature will have to fall below freezing, the air must be charged with more moisture than it can hold at that temperature. The excess vapor finds a place of rest upon some tiny particle of soot or dust—or even molecules that are electrified. Then, "star on exquisite star, falls the snow."

A scientist who collected photographs of snowflakes, found 5,000 different patterns, no two alike. All were six-pointed, some simple, some intricate in design. The simpler, more open forms fall from higher clouds, while the ones with complex symmetry come from lower strata, he says.

Another strange thing is that these flakes are not white, but clear. It is the reflection of light from many flakes together, that gives the effect of whiteness. Look at a flake of rime when the morning sun first strikes it. You know that it has rainbow reflections as dazzling as a jewel. And even on a cold day, snow or frost will disappear though there is no melting. It simply goes back to the gaseous state from which it came, reversing the process.

A foot of fallen snow will equal only an inch of rain. Pressed down to great depth, as in the mountains, it changes gradually to clear ice. Piled lightly over lawns or fields of wheat, it makes an insulating blanket that keeps warm what lies beneath it.

I stood upon our hilltop in the woods and watched the snow come down. Big intricate starry crystals clung together in huge feathery flakes, that came so softly that they seemed only to accent silence. I felt them on my face as I looked toward the sky, and with a kind of wonder, that old question came to my mind, "Hast thou entered into the treasures of the snow?"

LIFE'S LIKE THAT

"Do you inhale?"

LIBRARY HAS BIOGRAPHY OF WILL ROGERS

Wife of Humble Philosopher Presents Him In Warm Life; Writings Included.

The story of an unassuming American, beloved from coast to coast, is set down by Betty Rogers in an entertaining biography of her famous husband, Will Rogers.

Included among the new titles received at the Mansfield Public Library, "Will Rogers: His Wife's Story," makes no attempt to glorify the humble philosopher but rather to present him in a warm human light. Many of his heretofore unpublished letters and writings are incorporated in the book.

THE KREMLIN AND THE PEOPLE by Walter Duranty, a top-ranking journalist who has spent much time in Russia, is an attempt to explain to some extent the Russian enigma through the history of modern Russia—particularly of the last ten years—from the murder of Kirov in 1934 to the invasion by Germany in 1941. An earlier book by Duranty is "I Write As I Please."

RESPECTFULLY YOURS, ANNIE edited by Sylvia Brockway is a volume of letters written by the editor's London cook. Mrs. Brockway came to the United States on a visit shortly before the beginning of World War II. She has remained here with her two children, leaving Annie in charge of her Air-Raid-Warden husband and her home in England. Others than "Dear Madam" will find these letters delightful, and will appreciate Annie's amusing and inspiring hints on how to take wartime discomforts with a grin.

BLITHE SPIRIT by Noel Coward is an improbable farce in three acts. A writer arranges for a seance at his home, in order to get details for a book he is writing. Unfortunately his first wife materializes and refuses to leave. The daily bickerings between the writer and his two wives result in many unsuspected truths coming to light and finally in an accidental death.

OTHER NON-FICTION. BRITISH BIRDS by Kirkman and Jourdan; WOODCUTS AND WOOD ENGRAVINGS by Mueller; LATIN AMERICAN COSTUMES by Spicer; ARMS FOR LIVING by Tunney; REFERENCE BOOK OF INORGANIC CHEMISTRY by Latimer and others; PLANE GEOMETRY by Kingsbury and Wallace; MECHANICS OF MATERIALS by Lawson and Cox; MANNERS FOR MODERNS by McCrady and Wheeler; INTRODUCTION TO METALLURGY by Newton; MECHANICS, MOLECULAR PHYSICS AND HEAT by Millikan.

AT THE MOON'S INN by Andrew Lytle is an historical novel based on the life of the Spanish explorer, Hennando de Soto. Returning from Pizarro's conquest of Peru, de Soto marries Dona Ysabel, and with her help, he organizes his Florida expedition, the story of which is a drama of love, conquest, religion, lust and degradation.

TEACHER'S HUSBAND by Henry and Sylvia Lieferant is the story of Sally Brooks, teacher of English in one of New York city's large high schools, who marries Byrne Hamlin, buyer for a chain of bookstores. When Byrne's firm goes into bankruptcy, Sally finds herself supporting a husband—a thing against which her friends had warned her. How she solves her problem brings the story to an interesting conclusion.

LONG WINTER ENDS by Newton George Thomas is the story of Jim Holman, a young Cornish miner who, at the turn of the century, migrated to America, to the Michigan copper mines. Opportunity came to Jim, he learned to read and write, he made a good friend, and at the end of the winter he sent back home for his wife and baby son.

OTHER FICTION: MURDER GIVES A LOVELY LIGHT by Tillett; GAMBLER'S CHOICE by Hendryx; ONCE THERE WAS A VILLAGE by Dunlap.

'FLIP' BOOSTED ARMY'S MORALE

LEXINGTON, Mass.—(U.P.)—An 18th century zombie may have helped the handful of Minute Men who turned back the British regulars at Lexington and Concord in 1776.

While waiting for the advancing troops before dawn of April 19, the stalwart soldier-farmers fortified themselves at the Buckman tavern bar with copious glasses of what they called flip.

The recipe for flip:

"Fill a quart mug three-quarters full of bitter beer. Add four tablespoons of cream and sugar mixed equally. Pour in one gill of rum or gin and into this mixture plunge a hot iron to warm it."

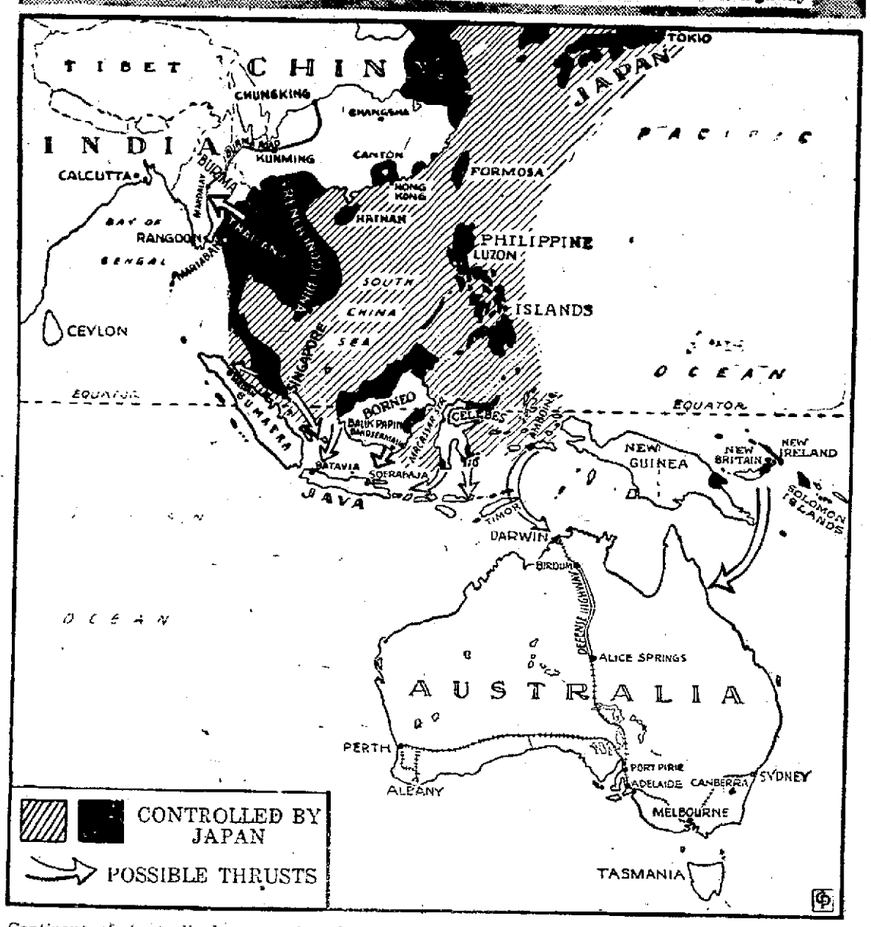
Australia Has Own 'Burma' Road to Defend

Australia's "Burma road"—new defense highway



Continent of Australia looms in the Pacific war news more and more as the threat of Japanese attack hovers over the "land down under." Australia, with a "Burma road" of its own to protect, has begun mobilizing every man fit to shoulder a rifle. With the fall of Singapore, the Japanese are expected to begin an all-out attack on the Dutch East Indies, where they have established many beachheads and which gives them bases for possible later air assaults on Australia. Map shows the Australian continent and its relation with the theater of war. Arrows indicate possible Jap thrusts. The picture at top shows the new defense highway which runs across the barren desert from Alice Springs to Birdum. From there a railroad line runs to Darwin, site of a naval base. This Australian "Burma road" thus permits movement of men and materials from the industrial south to the north coast.

Education for Workers Held As Vital Need

STATE COLLEGE, Pa.—(U.P.)—This war may result in the awakening of industries to the need for training programs for their workers to take advantage of new technical discoveries and processes, in the opinion of H. B. Northrup, director of mineral industries extension at Pennsylvania State college.

In Pennsylvania alone, Northrup said, "not more than half a dozen" of the 500 or more large mineral industries have established an educational program as part of their business set-up.

"In times of peace and depression most industries feel that courses for workers involve a needless expenditure," he said. "This is an extremely short-sighted policy, for in times of emergency they can't get the training fast enough."

Northrup declared that continuous training for workers would bring about a great improvement in the state's mineral industries as well as in other business enterprises.

Enlist Women For Oil Field Fire Fighters

GLADEWATER, Tex.—(U.P.)—A women's fire-fighting brigade is being organized to prevent flames from destroying the East Texas oil field in case of incendiary bombing.

Fire Chief O. B. Davis of Gladewater said the protection of the world's largest oil-producing area would be left largely to the housewives.

This system, said Davis, was used successfully in London during the fire raids and will be used in this rich oil production center.

Davis recently attended a defense meeting, where he learned of methods to combat fire bombs.

"You'd think they'd have a high-powered formula for putting out fire bombs," he commented. "But they don't. The formula is sand."

If bombing raids become imminent, Davis said, each housewife will be asked to keep on hand a supply of dry sand.

ANITA J. M'LAUGHLIN TO WED NED HUGHES

Series of Parties to Honor Bride-Elect; Rev. G. E. Swoyer to Officiate for Ceremony March 9.

FIRST in a series of parties planned for Miss Anita McLaughlin, bride-elect of Ned C. Hughes, was given last evening when nine members of the Xis Nemow club met at the home of Miss Carol E. Sturgeon, 256 South Adams street, for a valentine exchange. The evening was spent socially with prize awards being given to Miss Alleyene Liebhart, Mrs. Jack Vanek, Miss McLaughlin and Mrs. Bertha McLaughlin.

Luncheon was served at a table decorated with valentine hearts and sweetpeas which formed a background for miniature bridal couples. Lighted tapers furnished illumination. Heart favors and individual valentine molds marked each place. Mrs. Vanek, of Garfield Heights, was the only out-of-town member present. Miss McLaughlin was recipient of lovely crystal gifts from the group.

Announcement of the approaching nuptials was made at a party given by Miss McLaughlin's mother, Mrs. Theodore McLaughlin, Wednesday evening. The bride-elect and her parents reside on Vonhoff boulevard in Coolridge Heights. Mr. Hughes is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence C. Hughes, Cook road.

Thirty-one guests spent the evening playing bunco. Prizes were won by Mrs. Richard Huffman and Mrs. Earl Lucas. When a buffet luncheon was served, centerpiece for the table was a large chrome wishbone that had been placed on a heart. Silver bells were hanging from the top of the wishbone. At each end of the table was a miniature bride. Sweetpea blossoms encircled the dolls and the centerpiece.

Each guest received a small wishbone like the large one in the center of the table. The wedding announcement was concealed in tiny bells which hung from the top of the wishbones. The notes revealed that Miss McLaughlin will become the bride of Mr. Hughes on March 9. The honoree was presented with a gift of crystal by her mother.

Both Miss McLaughlin and her fiance are graduates of Madison high school. She is an employe of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company. Mr. Hughes is a student in mechanical engineering at Ohio Northern university, Ada.

The couple will exchange vows in an open ceremony at the First English Lutheran church. Rev. Grover E. Swoyer will officate.

Luncheon was served at a long table decorated with valentine appointments. Mrs. Russell Johns, North Benton street, will be hostess to the club on Feb. 25.

The former Miss Beal is the daughter of Rollin Beal of Bellville, and Mr. Rose is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Rose, 475 Howard avenue.

Program Sunday To Celebrate Anniversary

The National Council of Parents and Teachers celebrates its forty-fifth anniversary this month, paying tribute to its founders and former leaders. With conditions as they are today, the local P. T. A. Council feels greater need of stressing the last few words of the P. T. A. "Objects" which read: "To develop between educators and the general public such united efforts as will secure for every child the highest advantage in physical, mental, social and spiritual education."

It is with this in mind that the Mansfield Council of P. T. A. is celebrating the anniversary Sunday evening, Feb. 15, with a program that will begin at 7:30 o'clock in the First Lutheran church. The treble choir, under the direction of Mrs. W. J. Hazeltine, will entertain and Rev. David N. Roller will deliver a sermon based on the value of spiritual training in the home.

Mrs. K. E. Buhr, council president, will pay tribute to the past presidents of both local units and the council. Mrs. I. W. Basinger, vice president of the state congress, will give tribute to the founders. Tribute to the schools will be given by Supt. W. L. Miller.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

"We can," Stephen Redfield said, and in his voice was relief and a bit of thinly disguised triumph. He evidently considered that he had won out in his plan for taking both Mary and Olina out with him, and he palpably had no inkling of the scheme by which I had made certain that Mary could continue the outings with him which her denunciation of him endangered.

"And I'll bring the copy of the painting with me tonight," Olina said. "But don't show it to anybody, not even Mary. I'll tell her about it later."

"I'll be very careful," Steve Redfield said. Then he folded his copy of the note which had accompanied the painting and, rising, handed me the original.

Eager to Get Away.

"I really must be running along," he said, and I guessed that he was eager to get away for further study of the note, or for some other reason, and I made no attempt to detain him.

"I am sorry you have to go," I told him perfunctorily. "Do drop in on me again some time."

"I'll be glad to do that," he said, then bade us an elaborate but rather hasty adieu, and the door closed behind him.

Olina looked at me with admiration in her eyes.

"You managed that beautifully," she said. "Steve thinks he did it all himself, and you've made it easy for him to see Mary."

I gave a sudden exclamation of dismay, and she looked at me solicitously, but ventured no comment, waiting for me to explain or keep silent, as I wished.

Errand for Olina.

"I shall want you to do something important for me tonight at the theater," I said. "I have just remembered that I may not be here to see Mary when she comes back. My father spoke of having something for me to do, and I never know how long I shall be, or how far I shall have to go, when he plans anything for me to do."

"Whatever it is, please count on me for it," she said with pretty enthusiasm, and I smiled at her eager face.

"It's just this," I said. "When I was talking to Steve before you came in, I told him some pretty tall ones about Mary's reactions to what she overheard last night. I think he's divided between the opinion that she's wearing sackcloth and ashes because she's so remorseful for her treatment of him, and the notion, which I encouraged, while leaving the other in the background of his mind, that she's been swept off her feet by Noel's anger against Redfield, and doesn't wish to see anybody save her husband for awhile."

Steve on His Mettle.

Olina's dimples flashed mirthfully.

"That will put Steve on his mettle," he said. "He never can endure that blow to his vanity. He'll do anything in his power to win Mary back to the liking which, in his conceit, he imagines was his before. Well, there's one thing to the good. I won't have any trouble with him. He'll be so busy doing the big adoration stunt with Mary, that I'll only have a chance to look and listen. And that will be all right with me, for I don't like anything about him. He gives me the creeps."

"He does Mary, too," I said, and she promptly assented.

"Yes, I can see what she was doing, now," she said, "and I'm so relieved that she didn't fall for him."

Hidden Conspiracy.

"But the important thing is that Steve mustn't guess we've been conspiring against him," I said. "I must let her know exactly what I told him today concerning her."

"If you could put it in a note," Olina said eagerly, "I would be at the theater extra early and watch for her. Or do you think she'll come here first?"

"I'm sure she won't" I said. "I think she'll go directly to the theater, so that she can spend all the time possible with Noel. But if she should come back here, I'll have a carbon copy of the note in her letter box with strict instructions that she get it before she leaves for the theater And now, if you'll excuse me, I'll rush it our."

I took from the closet the portable typewriter which I had had sent up for my use, slipped two sheets and a carbon into it, and began the note of warning for Mary.

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, February 14.

This day's planetary configurations show many exceptional opportunities for expression of unusual versatility and creative skill, either in the realm of business, art, culture, in all forms of professional skills as well as in vital ambitions to wield power and prestige, in high places, in whatever avenue chosen. It should be expansive, and productive but there should be tact and grace in dealing with those in authority It would not do to be overbearing and contentious. Also shun schemers.

Those whose birthday it is may be assured excellent opportunity for achieving a high place in the realm of heart's desire, whether that be in business, finance, political or diplomatic life, in the professions, as well as in society, the arts or in humanitarian service. It should be a time for pushing to cherished goals under the expansive, generous fruitful and creative stimulus of major planets But there is need for finesse and discretion in all approaches, whether in social, political or public contacts. There is also need for wariness against schemes and subtle wiles or betrayals.

A child born on this day should be capable and ambitious in many directions and while noble, expansive and generous it should not hesitate to restort to expediency for attaining its desires. It may have marked social or cultural aspirations.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

"The Authority on Authorities"

GRASP NARROW MARGINS.

IF YOU wait for decisive advantages on your side before taking action in the bidding, you are going to get your block knocked off by opponents who know how to make use of narrow advantages. In the long run it will be costly to you to pass up opportunities in which your side has just the very slightest edge in its favor. Hands that are barely worth bidding, and major suits that are just barely strong enough at the top to indicate a possible stopper, if your partner later decides to try No Trump, must be bid unless you reckon you are so good you can afford to throw away the points to be made thereby.

	♠ K 9 7 6 ♥ Q J 7 5 ♦ A J 4 ♣ K 4
♠ A 10 ♥ K 8 6 2 ♦ Q 10 9 7 5 ♣ 6 5	N. W. E. S.	♠ J 8 2 ♥ A 10 9 4 ♦ 6 3 ♣ Q J 8 7
	♠ Q 5 4 3 ♥ 3 ♦ K 8 2 ♣ A 10 9 3 2

(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
2 ♠	Pass	4 ♠

This hand, from a duplicate game of the Inter-Club league in New York, offers a good sermon for rubber bridge, too, as cards have just the same trick-taking power in either. The pair bidding the hand as shown got the top score. Believe it or not, John P Mattheys made not 4-Spades, but an extra trick with a little help

The diamond 10 was led to the J. club K and A taken, club 3 ruffed low when West discarded, heart Q led to the K. spade A laid down and the 10 led to the K, the heart 3 ruffed, the club 9 ruffed, diamond 4 led to the K, the spade Q used to drop the J, and the established club 10 and diamond A completed the hand. Of course two trump tricks can be taken by the defense and the overtricks prevented if West doesn't lead trumps, but the game is there all the time.

With 12 tables playing the deal, four of them passed it out, because the weaker players did not know how to evaluate a hand such as North's. With a sprinkling of honors of secondary size, the old 4-3-2-1 count helps. This deal totals 14, one more than enough to justify a bid. The 1-Club opening makes it easier to find a four-four major suit fit, if you have a partner who will bid a suit like South's, or if you will later bid one like North's hearts or spades. In several cases South raised clubs, North bid 2-No Trumps and it wound up at 3-No Trumps, which got made, but also got beaten in match points by the correct spade contract.

THEATERS

Newspaper Comedy.

Spencer Tracy and Katharine Hepburn pool their talents for the first time in "Woman of the Year," a sparkling comedy of the Fourth Estate, opening Saturday at the Ohio. Tracy has a made-to-order role as a newspaper sports writer who marries a highly sophisticated columnist on international affairs. Miss Hepburn plays the columnist who expects her husband to scramble his own eggs while she pounds out her piece for the paper. Based on a story by Ring Lardner, jr., and Michael Kanin the picture also features Reginald Owen as a managing editor, and Fay Bainter as a dominant feminist.

Powerful Story.

Bette Davis brings to the screen another highly-charged emotional role in "The Little Foxes," opening Saturday at the Madison. Playing the part that Tallulah Bankhead brought to the stage Miss Davis is supported by a number of players from the original cast and Theresa Wright from the New York production, "Life With Father." Herbert Marshall appears opposite Miss Davis as a sick man eternally plagued by a calculating and avaricious wife. The action is laid in the old south at the turn of the century when ambitious women were starting to participate in the management of industry. "The Body Disappears," a comedy with Jeffrey Lynn and Jane Wyman, is the second attraction.

Oriental Drama.

"Burma Convoy," with Charles Bickford and Keye Luke opens today at the Ritz. The picture has a timely theme considering the Chinese situation today and will be supplemented by "Riders of the Purple Sage," a Zane Grey story, with George Montgomery.

Screen Funfest.

Romantic mix-ups, a crooked real estate scheme that backfires and spectacular thrills in a runaway plan pervade Fibber McGee and Molly's comedy, "Look Who's Laughing," opening Saturday at the Park. Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy also head the cast along with Lucille Ball and Harold "Gildersleeve" Peary. McGee plays the leading citizen of a mid-western village torn between backing an airplane factory or letting a rival village reap the benefit. Bergen aids the cause as a famous ventriloquist. Bela Lugosi in "Spooks Run Wild," in the second attraction.

Crime Thriller.

Chester Morris and Harriet Hilliard are co-starred in "Confessions of Boston Blackie," showing at the Majestic. "Cyclone of the Saddle," the second picture, features Rex Lease.

Auxiliary Elects Officers; Gives Benefit Bridge

Officers were elected when members of the Prospect Park Auxiliary met at the pavilion on Thursday evening. Those chosen were Mrs. Roy W. Vaughn, president; Mrs. W. F. Shupp, vice president; Mrs. James Morgan, secretary; Mrs. Robert Mask, treasurer; Mrs. C. W. Daugherty, reporter; Mrs. C. B. Hughes, and Mrs. R. P. Rooks, trustees.

Included in the refreshments were valentine cookies made by the members. Committee was comprised of Mrs. Hughes and Mrs. Bertha Fisher.

GEN. JOHNSON: Reports Shipbuilding Ahead of Losses

By HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON—Why don't our hundreds of thousands of women who want to help in the war reach out to do some real and necessary work instead of devoting themselves to OCD and similar war-time versions of Harry Hopkins WPA.

Gen. Johnson.

Our shortage of nurses is getting to be a problem and that of doctors threatens to be a worse one. As our army expands it will need its full quota of doctors and all the competent trained and registered nurses there seems to be any prospect of getting. It has already taken many.

You can make a passable doctor and nobody wants one that isn't passable.

You can't get a nurse with the required professional attainments in less than two and preferably three years. It doesn't require any mathematical genius to figure out the arithmetic of that.

It is a potential explosion like a keg of dynamite that we are sitting on. It is not the kind of situation upon which you can wait to prepare or avoid until after the fuse begins to sizzle.

If you are going to do something about it when it comes six months from now, you have got to begin to do it now. Then, it will be forever too late.

No, you can't make a competent nurse in six months, but experts in supervising nurses, watching their training and in the profession of nursing tell me that—given an earnest, ablebodied and intelligent woman, really devoted to the job of making herself competent—she can make herself extremely useful or even indispensable in six months' intensified work and training.

There is no aspect of frill or glamour about this job. It is hard gruelling and frequently dirty and distasteful work.

You can't do it on any basis of giving only spare moments, or as an aside to social activities, or giving all that you know about knitting to the job. It is not for social uplifters, adagio-dancers or amateur entertainment to raise the morale of either soldiers or the civilian population.

The best way to increase the morale of an embattled nation's armed forces or its people is to make that nation efficient on both the home front and the battle front.

Does anybody suppose that the stench aroused by the slight stirring-up of the OCD mess raised the morale of anybody except the high-salaried chief boondogglers and the exhibitionists who lend themselves to such gross publicity antics of futility?

An anybody will know who will take the trouble just barely to skim through the mail of any columnists with a national circulation, nothing that has happened has created more resentment among soldiers and civilians.

The civilian letters protest the taxation that is here and the worse that is coming, if it is to be squandered in nonsense. It brings the economy of the whole defense effort into question and is the worst blow yet suffered to our morale.

It brazenly advertises also a frivolity about the desperate position into which British and American strategy has been blundered. Since it comes from Washington itself, it argues the same kind of carelessness there.

JURY WILL GET LAURA INGALLS CASE TODAY

Decides Whether Woman Flier Was Nazi Propagandist or Just Zealot.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — A district court jury decides this Friday the 13th whether 38-year-old ganda agent or just an over-imagganda agent or just an over-imaginative woman who wanted to be "a sort of Mata Hari" in her country's behalf.

The bob-haired flier faces a possible maximum penalty, if the jury decides against her, of eight to 24 months in prison and a $1,000 fine for failing to register with the state department. Both sides rested late yesterday and the case will go to the jury following final arguments and the judge's charge.

Miss Ingalls was her own star witness. She admitted that she offered her services to Dr. Hans Thomsen, German charge d'affairs; Fritz Wiedeman, former German consul at San Francisco, and Baron Ulrich von Gienanth, second secretary of the German embassy and reputed head of Gestapo agents in the United States.

But, she contended, she made isolationist speeches at von Gienanth's direction and received payments totaling $400 from him only because she wanted to investigate the Germans and see if they were engaged in subversize activities.

"I have a strong imaignation," Miss Ingalls testified. "I saw myself as a sort of Mati Hari, an international spy, and I wanted to serve my country. I was fascinated."

According to her own story, Miss Ingalls served the Germans for 51 days and was paid $400 for the November work alone. She received $100 on account for December but another $100 was intercepted by the federal bureau of investigation on the day she was arrested, last Dec. 17.

Automobile tires are not the only worry of Fred B. Wolff, tire rationing board member. His big trouble is in keeping his rubber overshoes. Wolff lost a pair yesterday at the Kiwanis meeting when another member took them by mistake. It was the second time he lost his overshoes since he took over the task of rationing rubber tires.

A 17-year-old colored youth at the Mansfield CCC camp had a new alibi today when accused of stealing an automobile belonging to Glenn Heuss, Mansfield, two weeks ago. Brought to the county jail by sheriff's deputies, the youth said some cross dogs always threatened him as he walked back to the camp late at night and he "borrowed" the car to drive past them. The car was found abandoned near the camp a few hours after it was stolen. Officers said the youth, who lives in Toledo, had a flashlight with Heuss' name on it.

There were 84 candles on the cake at 142 Arthur avenue last night as members of the Richland county fair board and other friends gathered to honor Webster H. Shryock, fairgrounds custodian and former fair board member. Long identified with fair activities in the county, Shryock remains active even at 84. In fact, he calls the fair board members whom he annually challenges to a birthday pinochle game "those old fellows."

Getting ready for a "personal appearance" at their annual public program and tea in First Presbyterian church Sunday afternoon, March 1, is keeping the 25 members of the Business and Professional Women's glee club busy with rehearsals, shopping for formal dress and all the other details. Moving a grand piano to the church comes under the heading of "other details." Miss Myrtle Booth directs the club which is presenting Mabel Zehner, church organist, as guest artist.

MARINE CHIEF SEES SPURT IN CONSTRUCTION

Land Tells House Committee Shipbuilders Will Meet FDR Tonnage Goal.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Despite intensified Axis submarine raiding, congress today had the assurance that the United States is building ships as fast as they are sunk and within a short time the current construction rate will be greatly increased.

This blunt assurance was given to the house appropriations committee by Shipping Commissioner Admiral Emory S. Land, who testified in support of the record $32,000,000,000 new war spending bill.

The chairman of the maritime commisison, recently appointed shipping czar, also told the committee:

That the nation's shipbuilders will meet President Roosevelt's goal to construct 8,000,000 additional tons of merchant vessels this year and 10,000,000 tons next year.

That during January ship construction was "well ahead" of sinkings, but that during the first part of this month vessels were sent to the bottom at just the same rate as they came off the ways.

That a total of ten merchant ships were lost during 1941 because of loss of construction time due to labor strikes, but that the labor situation is causing no loss of time now.

Land's testimony came after the committee approved the army's portion of the all time record bill — $22,888,000,000, chiefly for ordnance.

Land, howeevr, testified about another section of the bill—one calling for $3,582,000,000 for the maritime commission to construct 1,400 additional tankers and freighters and generally to accelerate the building of vital ships.

Secretary of Agriculture Wickard was called by the committee to discuss the last section—$5,430,000,000 for additional lend-lease aid to the United Nations.

The bulk of this, $3,567,115,000, is for agricultural and industrial products, most of which will be foodstuffs for citizens and friendly armies in the war zones.

Rep. Cannon (D) Mo., chairman of the committee, said the entire bill would be approved this week and brought up on the floor, where speedy passage is assured, next Tuesday.

You Can't Print That!

(A compendium of tales that can't be told with names, because they're too true to print. If you find in them any resemblance to actual persons, living or dead—you're probably guessed right.)

* * *

WE all remember Ellen from a few years back, when she first hit Broadway and the rest of the bright light zone. She was young and pretty and burning with the ambition to be another Bernhardt. She wasn't looking for love, but when she met Dick, a newspaperman, she fell fast and hard. And he didn't fall at all. He liked Ellen well enough, but he was a restless type; there were others he liked enough, too.

Kilgallen

Ellen had to eat, so she took modeling jobs; but she gave up her dream of becoming a great actress. Somehow she couldn't concentrate on scenes and lines and greasepaint and the other things of Shubert Alley; her heart was full of Dick and the hope that maybe some day his heart would match her love. She wore her love on her sleeve, too; the torch she carried made Broadway history that season.

Then, casually one night over supper at Sardi's, Dick told her he was leaving on a European assignment. He didn't know for how long; maybe a year, maybe longer, depending on how the war went.

And Ellen's world fell to pieces the day he left town. She couldn't see any other men, so she turned back to her first love—acting, and before long she was in a Broadway play. In a small role, of course, not so small that the talent scouts didn't notice her.

Meanwhile, something strange began to happen to Dick. The further away he got, the more he thought of Ellen. The more hours and the more miles separated them, the better he knew he loved her.

So he came back to New York from across the ocean to surprise her.

And the day he got to town, Ellen arrived in Hollywood, a contract tucked in her purse.

Frantic long-distance calls followed. Ellen would be back in Manhattan as soon as possible. She had to fulfill her contract, but when that was finished, her career would be over. Her world was bright, because he loved her. Even Hollywood began to look nice.

Ellen's studio, in the old tradition, arranged for her to be seen on dates with one of the more promising young actors on the lot—a handsome lad named Ronald. The columns began to hint that they were in love, then that they were engaged.

Dick, in New York, was furious—and he managed to get himself linked with some of Broadway's beautiful show girls.

The lovers' feud grew and gathered momentum, and soon neither knew whether the engagement was on or off and both were too hurt to ask. Ellen concentrated on her career. Ronald became her constant and ardent swain. Dick carried the torch. A year elapsed.

Then Ronald came to New York on a vacation. And a few trains later, Ellen arrived. To see Ronald? Well, that's what everyone thought. But actually to see Dick. She had made up her mind that if he still wanted to marry her, she'd give up her career and stay in New York. They lunched together secretly—and by the time the luncheon was over, they knew the answer. It was too late. They were in different worlds now. Their love had missed the boat.

So Ellen went back with Ronald, and they'll probably be married soon. And Ronald will never know how close he came to going back alone.

But you can't print that. Ronald's fans would never believe that an unglamorous newspaper fellow could be competition for him. In the movies, he always gets the girl—and after all, isn't life pretty much like the movies?

Sure it is.

WARNS OF RISE IN TIRE THEFTS

Auto Association Head Asks Courts Impose Heaviest Possible Penalties.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Thefts of automobile tires and federal use stamps have reached serious proportions, it was asserted today by Paul G. Gnau of Canton, president of the Ohio state Automobile association, in urging prompt action by law enforcement officials and courts.

Gnau told an association meeting that new restrictions on retread sales and retreading were certain to increase criminal activities.

"Tire thefts in the present national emergency should bear the heaviest possible penalties," he said. "Small fines will not curb tire rustlers, bootlegging in the sale of new tires and price-gouging for used tires."

Meanwhile, the association charted a program for wartime motoring service designed to "keep 'em rolling."

Russell E. Singer, general manager of the American Automobile Association, declared that "while the rubber situation is serious . . . every effort will be made to assure essential automobile operations."

"It is now recognized," he said, "that mass transportation lines can not alone meet the war production problem and hundreds of thousands of essential workers must continue to rely on their cars to get to and from work."

It was estimated that 650,000 of Ohio's 1,800,000 passenger cars are 1940-41 models with tires good for one to two years' driving.

TALKS TO CLUB

Traffic Commissioner Says Auto Crashes Here Cost $250,000.

Frend C. Boals, Mansfield traffic commissioner, told members of the Kiwanis club at their luncheon meeting yesterday that approximately $250,000 is spent in Mansfield yearly to pay for auto collision damage, as much as is spent operating costs of the vehicles.

Boals urged the gathering in the Mansfield-Leland hotel to consider these figures in the light of business practices, pointing out that any business which lost as much money yearly as its operating expenses would cease existence.

DIES IN PLANE CRASH

COLUMBUS —(INS)— Charles E. Moeller, 23, of Columbus, was one of two men killed when a twin-engined army bomber crashed yesterday near Portland, Ark., while on a routine training flight, his father was informed today.

DENTAL MOBILE UNIT TO OPEN EXAMINATIONS HERE MARCH 2

The state dental mobile unit will roll into Mansfield, Monday, March 2, to give free dental examinations to both public and parochial school pupils throughout Richland county over a three-day period.

This was announced today by Dr. W. B. Wild, city-county health commissioner, through whose office the visit of the mobile clinic to each school in the county will be scheduled. All pupils from the first through the fourth grade will be eligible for examination along with male pupils of the twelfth grade classes.

The first visit of the state mobile unit to the county will provide pupils with examinations only and no corrective work will be done by the clinic. This will be left to the parents of the individual.

At least two dentists from the state health department and a nurse will accompany the unit while Dr. Wild's office will be asked to furnish a regular school nurse to check student records on the day of visitation to each school.

Services of the state unit are free to the city-county health department. Both denspeaking engagements before tists and nurses will accept any organization and club throughout the county without charge.

The Mansfield Dental Clinic, of which Mrs. Warren Fort is president, has been asked by Dr. Wild to handle the speaking engagements while the latter schedules the school visits. Mrs. Robert Stephens will lead the Clinic committee.

Until recently the state mobile unit examined only pupils in the first four elementary grades but the service was opened in January to male members of the graduating classes because of the appalling number of defects revealed by military physical examination boards in the present emergency.

IS YOURS ONE OF 'EM?'

Grant Wood, One Of Modern Art's Leaders, Is Dead

IOWA CITY, Ia.—(INS)— Grant Wood, famous painter of mid-western life and a leader of the so-called new "regional" school of art, was dead today.

He died in a hospital last night within a few hours of his fiftieth birthday. He was born in February, Friday, the 13th, 1892, in Anamosa, Ia., the son of a Quaker family.

His "American Gothic" was one of the most notable of his paintings, but, like many other of his pictures, it aroused a storm of dissension, chiefly among his own mid-west people who did not relish the severity with which he portrayed them.

Another at which most of the nation grinned appreciatively was his "Daughters of Revolution," a picture of three dour-faced, stiff-necked, tea-drinking ladies. Members of the Daughters of the American Revolution, or many of them, did not care for it. Edward G. Robinson, the movie actor, nows owns "Daughters of Revolution."

THEATERS

Newspaper Comedy.

Spencer Tracy and Katharine Hepburn pool their talents for the first time in "Woman of the Year," a sparkling comedy of the Fourth Estate, opening Saturday at the Ohio. Tracy has a made-to-order role as a newspaper sports writer who marries a highly sophisticated columnist on international affairs. Miss Hepburn plays the columnist who expects her husband to scramble his own eggs while she pounds out her piece for the paper. Based on a story by Ring Lardner, jr., and Michael Kanin the picture also features Reginald Owen as a managing editor, and Fay Bainter as a dominant feminist.

Powerful Story.

Bette Davis brings to the screen another highly-charged emotional role in "The Little Foxes," opening Saturday at the Madison. Playing the part that Tallulah Bankhead brought to the stage Miss Davis is supported by a number of players from the original cast and Theresa Wright from the New York production, "Life With Father." Herbert Marshall appears opposite Miss Davis as a sick man eternally plagued by a calculating and avaricious wife. The action is laid in the old south at the turn of the century when ambitious women were starting to participate in the management of industry. "The Body Disappears," a comedy with Jeffrey Lynn and Jane Wyman, is the second attraction.

Oriental Drama.

"Burma Convoy," with Charles Bickford and Keye Luke opens today at the Ritz. The picture has a timely theme considering the Chinese situation today and will be supplemented by "Riders of the Purple Sage," a Zane Grey story, with George Montgomery.

Screen Funfest.

Romantic mix-ups, a crooked real estate scheme that backfires and spectacular thrills in a runaway plan pervade Fibber McGee and Molly's comedy, "Look Who's Laughing," opening Saturday at the Park. Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy also head the cast along with Lucille Ball and Harold "Gildersleeve" Peary. McGee plays the leading citizen of a mid-western village torn between backing an airplane factory or letting a rival village reap the benefit. Bergen aids the cause as a famous ventriloquist. Bela Lugosi in "Spooks Run Wild," in the second attraction.

Crime Thriller.

Chester Morris and Harriet Hilliard are co-starred in "Confessions of Boston Blackie," showing at the Majestic. "Cyclone of the Saddle," the second picture, features Rex Lease.

GEN. JOHNSON: Reports Shipbuilding Ahead of Losses

By HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON—Why don't our hundreds of thousands of women who want to help in the war reach out to do some real and necessary work instead of devoting themselves to OCD and similar war-time versions of Harry Hopkins WPA.

Gen. Johnson.

Our shortage of nurses is getting to be a problem and that of doctors threatens to be a worse one. As our army expands it will need its full quota of doctors and all the competent trained and registered nurses there seems to be any prospect of getting. It has already taken many.

You can make a passable doctor and nobody wants one that isn't passable.

You can't get a nurse with the required professional attainments in less than two and preferably three years. It doesn't require any mathematical genius to figure out the arithmetic of that.

It is a potential explosion like a keg of dynamite that we are sitting on. It is not the kind of situation upon which you can wait to prepare or avoid until after the fuse begins to sizzle.

If you are going to do something about it when it comes six months from now, you have got to begin to do it now. Then, it will be forever too late.

No, you can't make a competent nurse in six months, but experts in supervising nurses, watching their training and in the profession of nursing tell me that—given an earnest, ablebodied and intelligent woman, really devoted to the job of making herself competent—she can make herself extremely useful or even indispensable in six months' intensified work and training.

There is no aspect of frill or glamour about this job. It is hard gruelling and frequently dirty and distasteful work.

You can't do it on any basis of giving only spare moments, or as an aside to social activities, or giving all that you know about knitting to the job. It is not for social uplifters, adagio-dancers or amateur entertainment to raise the morale of either soldiers or the civilian population.

The best way to increase the morale of an embattled nation's armed forces or its people is to make that nation efficient on both the home front and the battle front.

Does anybody suppose that the stench aroused by the slight stirring-up of the OCD mess raised the morale of anybody except the high-salaried chief boondogglers and the exhibitionists who lend themselves to such gross publicity antics of futility?

An anybody will know who will take the trouble just barely to skim through the mail of any columnists with a national circulation, nothing that has happened has created more resentment among soldiers and civilians.

The civilian letters protest the taxation that is here and the worse that is coming, if it is to be squandered in nonsense. It brings the economy of the whole defense effort into question and is the worst blow yet suffered to our morale.

It brazenly advertises also a frivolity about the desperate position into which British and American strategy has been blundered. Since it comes from Washington itself, it argues the same kind of carelessness there.

BROADWAY

By Dorothy Kilgallen

You Can't Print That!

(A compendium of tales that can't be told with names, because they're too true to print. If you find in them any resemblance to actual persons, living or dead—you've probably guessed right.)

* * *

WE all remember Ellen from a few years back, when she first hit Broadway and the rest of the bright light zone. She was young and pretty and burning with the ambition to be another Bernhardt. She wasn't looking for love, but when she met Dick, a newspaperman, she fell fast and hard. And he didn't fall at all. He liked Ellen well enough, but he was a restless type; there were others he liked enough, too.

Kilgallen

Ellen had to eat, so she took modeling jobs; but she gave up her dream of becoming a great actress. Somehow she couldn't concentrate on scenes and lines and greasepaint and the other things of Shubert Alley; her heart was full of Dick and the hope that maybe some day his heart would match her love. She wore her love on her sleeve, too; the torch she carried made Broadway history that season.

Then, casually one night over supper at Sardi's, Dick told her he was leaving on a European assignment. He didn't know for how long; maybe a year, maybe longer, depending on how the war went.

And Ellen's world fell to pieces the day he left town. She couldn't see any other men, so she turned back to her first love—acting, and before long she was in a Broadway play. In a small role, of course, not so small that the talent scouts didn't notice her.

Meanwhile, something strange began to happen to Dick. The further away he got, the more he thought of Ellen. The more hours and the more miles separated them, the better he knew he loved her.

So he came back to New York from across the ocean to surprise her.

And the day he got to town, Ellen arrived in Hollywood, a contract tucked in her purse.

Frantic long-distance calls followed. Ellen would be back in Manhattan as soon as possible. She had to fulfill her contract, but when that was finished, her career would be over. Her world was bright, because he loved her. Even Hollywood began to look nice.

Ellen's studio, in the old tradition, arranged for her to be seen on dates with one of the more promising young actors on the lot—a handsome lad named Ronald. The columns began to hint that they were in love, then that they were engaged.

Dick, in New York, was furious—and he managed to get himself linked with some of Broadway's beautiful how girls.

The lovers' feud grew and gathered momentum, and soon neither knew whether the engagement was on or off and both were too hurt to ask. Ellen concentrated on her career. Ronald became her constant and ardent swain. Dick carried the torch. A year elapsed.

Then Ronald came to New York on a vacation. And a few trains later, Ellen arrived. To see Ronald? Well, that's what everyone thought. But actually to see Dick. She had made up her mind that if he still wanted to marry her, she'd give up her career and stay in New York. They lunched together secretly—and by the time the luncheon was over, they knew the answer. It was too late. They were in different worlds now. Their love had missed the boat.

So Ellen went back with Ronald, and they'll probably be married soon. And Ronald will never know how close he came to going back alone.

But you can't print that. Ronald's fans would never believe that an unglamorous newspaper fellow could be competition for him. In the movies, he always gets the girl—and after all, isn't life pretty much like the movies?

Sure it is.

JURY WILL GET LAURA INGALLS CASE TODAY

Decides Whether Woman Flier Was Nazi Propagandist or Just Zealot.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — A district court jury decides this Friday the 13th whether 38-year-old ganda agent or just an over-imagganda agent or just an over-imaginative woman who wanted to be "a sort of Mata Hari" in her country's behalf.

The bob-haired flier faces a possible maximum penalty, if the jury decides against her, of eight to 24 months in prison and a $1,000 fine for failing to register with the state department. Both sides rested late yesterday and the case will go to the jury following final arguments and the judge's charge.

Miss Ingalls was her own star witness. She admitted that she offered her services to Dr. Hans Thomsen, German charge d'affairs; Fritz Wiedeman, former German consul at San Francisco, and Baron Ulrich von Gienanth, second secretary of the German embassy and reputed head of Gestapo agents in the United States.

But, she contended, she made isolationist speeches at von Gienanth's direction and received payments totaling $400 from him only because she wanted to investigate the Germans and see if they were engaged in subversize activities.

"I have a strong imaignation," Miss Ingalls testified, "I saw myself as a sort of Mati Hari, an international spy, and I wanted to serve my country. I was fascinated."

According to her own story, Miss Ingalls served the Germans for 51 days and was paid $400 for the November work alone. She received $100 on account for December but another $100 was intercepted by the federal bureau of investigation on the day she was arrested, last Dec. 17.

WARNS OF RISE IN TIRE THEFTS

Auto Association Head Asks Courts Impose Heaviest Possible Penalties.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Thefts of automobile tires and federal use stamps have reached serious proportions, it was asserted today by Paul G. Gnau of Canton, president of the Ohio state Automobile association, in urging prompt action by law enforcement officials and courts.

Gnau told an association meeting that new restrictions on retread sales and retreading were certain to increase criminal activities.

"Tire thefts in the present national emergency should bear the heaviest possible penalties," he said. "Small fines will not curb tire rustlers, bootlegging in the sale of new tires and price-gouging for used tires."

Meanwhile, the association charted a program for wartime motoring service designed to "keep 'em rolling."

Russell E. Singer, general manager of the American Automobile Association, declared that "while the rubber situation is serious . . . every effort will be made to assure essential automobile operations."

"It is now recognized," he said, "that mass transportation lines can not alone meet the war production problem and hundreds of thousands of essential workers must continue to rely on their cars to get to and from work."

It was estimated that 650,000 of Ohio's 1,800,000 passenger cars are 1940-41 models with tires good for one to two years' driving.

DIES IN WEST

Edwin C. De Hart, Former Mansfield Resident, Succumbs.

Relatives here today were notified of the death in Mesa, Ariz., yesterday, of Edwin C. DeHart, former Mansfielder. DeHart had gone west six years ago for his health.

Surviving are his widow, Gladys; a son, Gail, and a daughter, Joan, all of Mesa, Ariz.; his mother, Mrs. Catherine DeHart, and a sister, Mrs. Ina Emmer, both of Mansfield. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

TALKS TO CLUB

Traffic Commissioner Says Auto Crashes Here Cost $250,000.

Frend C. Boals, Mansfield traffic commissioner, told members of the Kiwanis club at their luncheon meeting yesterday that approximately $250,000 is spent in Mansfield yearly to pay for auto collision damage, as much as is spent operating costs of the vehicles.

Boals urged the gathering in the Mansfield-Leland hotel to consider these figures in the light of business practices, pointing out that any business which lost as much money yearly as its operating expenses would cease existence.

DIES IN PLANE CRASH

COLUMBUS —(INS)— Charles E. Moeller, 23, of Columbus, was one of two men killed when a twin-engined army bomber crashed yesterday near Portland, Ark., while on a routine training flight, his father was informed today.

DENTAL MOBILE UNIT TO OPEN EXAMINATIONS HERE MARCH 2

The state dental mobile unit will roll into Mansfield, Monday, March 2, to give free dental examinations to both public and parochial school pupils throughout Richland county over a three-day period.

This was announced today by Dr. W. B. Wild, city-county health commissioner, through whose office the visit of the mobile clinic to each school in the county will be scheduled. All pupils from the first through the fourth grade will be eligible for examination along with male pupils of the twelfth grade classes.

The first visit of the state mobile unit to the county will provide pupils with examinations only and no corrective work will be done by the clinic. This will be left to the parents of the individual.

At least two dentists from the state health department and a nurse will accompany the unit while Dr. Wild's office will be asked to furnish a regular school nurse to check student records on the day of visitation to each school.

Services of the state unit are free to the city-county health department. Both dentists and nurses will accept any organization and club throughout the county without charge.

The Mansfield Dental Clinic, of which Mrs. Warren Fort is president, has been asked by Dr. Wild to handle the speaking engagements while the latter schedules the school visits. Mrs. Robert Stephens will lead the Clinic committee.

Until recently the state mobile unit examined only pupils in the first four elementary grades but the service was opened in January to male members of the graduating classes because of the appalling number of defects revealed by military physical examination boards in the present emergency.

FALLS DEAD

Mansfielder Dies Two Days After Getting Job.

Two days after he had obtained a job at the Kallmerten and Baer company on East Fifth street, Jean LaPar LaTrasse, 56, of 299 East Fourth street, fell dead of a heart attack yesterday while at work.

Mr. LaTrasse was born in Garland City, Ark., on Oct. 7, 1885. He had resided in Mansfield for the past three years. He had been employed at the building supply company since Tuesday. Mr. LaTrasse served as a private in Company B, 125th Engineers corps, during Word War 1.

Survivors are his widow, Mary, and three sons, Patrick, Jerome and Michael, all of Mansfield. Funeral services will be held at the Finefrock funeral home Saturday at 3 p. m. with the Jehovah's Witnesses in charge. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

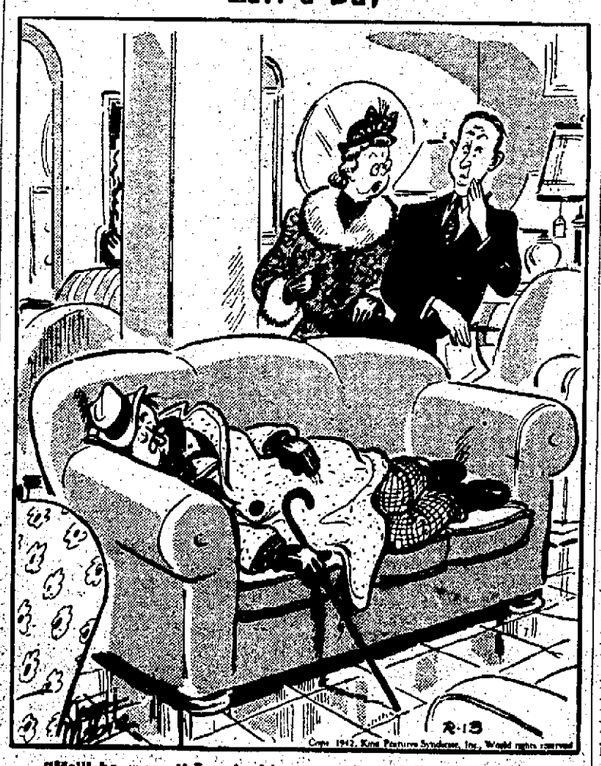
LINCOLN SCULPTOR DIES

PEORIA, Ill.—(AP)—Joseph Petarde, 76, sculptor whose statue of Lincoln stands in Statehouse Square in Springfield, Ill., died here last night.

IS YOURS ONE OF 'EM?'

COLUMBUS —(INS)— Approximately 650,000 of the 1,800,000 autos in Ohio are 1940 and 1941 models with tires good enough for one to three years' normal driving, officials of the Ohio State Automobile association declared at the first meeting of a two-day session.

Laff-a-Day



"He'll be cross if I wake him now. Just deliver him with the divan and other things in the morning!"

Copr. 1942, King Features Syndicate, Inc., World rights reserved.

A 17-year-old colored youth at the Mansfield CCC camp had a new alibi today when accused of stealing an automobile belonging to Glenn Heuss, Mansfield, two weeks ago. Brought to the county jail by sheriff's deputies, the youth said some cross dogs always threatened him as he walked back to the camp late at night and he "borrowed" the car to drive past them. The car was found abandoned near the camp a few hours after it was stolen. Officers said the youth, who lives in Toledo, had a flashlight with Heuss' name on it.

There were 84 candles on the cake at 142 Arthur avenue last night as members of the Richland county fair board and other friends gathered to honor Webster H. Shryock, fairgrounds custodian and former fair board member. Long identified with fair activities in the county, Shryock remains active even at 84. In fact, he calls the fair board members whom he annually challenges to a birthday pinochle game "those old fellows."

MARINE CHIEF SEES SPURT IN CONSTRUCTION

Land Tells House Committee Shipbuilders Will Meet FDR Tonnage Goal.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Despite intensified Axis submarine raiding, congress today had the assurance that the United States is building ships as fast as they are sunk and within a short time the current construction rate will be greatly increased.

This blunt assurance was given to the house appropriations committee by Shipping Commissioner Admiral Emory S. Land, who testified in support of the record $32,000,000,000 new war spending bill.

The chairman of the maritime commisison, recently appointed shipping czar, also told the committee:

That the nation's shipbuilders will meet President Roosevelt's goal to construct 8,000,000 additional tons of merchant vessels this year and 10,000,000 tons next year.

That during January ship construction was "well ahead" of sinkings, but that during the first part of this month vessels were sent to the bottom at just the same rate as they came off the ways.

That a total of ten merchant ships were lost during 1941 because of loss of construction time due to labor strikes, but that the labor situation is causing no loss of time now.

Land's testimony came after the committee approved the army's portion of the all time record bill — $22,888,000,000, chiefly for ordnance.

Land, howeevr, testified about another section of the bill—one calling for $3,582,000,000 for the maritime commission to construct 1,400 additional tankers and freighters and generally to accelerate the building of vital ships.

Secretary of Agriculture Wickard was called by the committee to discuss the last section—$5,430,000,000 for additional lend-lease aid to the United Nations.

The bulk of this, $3,567,115,000, is for agricultural and industrial products, most of which will be foodstuffs for citizens and friendly armies in the war zones.

Rep. Cannon (D) Mo., chairman of the committee, said the entire bill would be approved this week and brought up on the floor, where speedy passage is assured, next Tuesday.

Grant Wood, One Of Modern Art's Leaders, Is Dead

IOWA CITY, Ia.—(INS)— Grant Wood, famous painter of midwestern life and a leader of the so-called new "regional" school of art, was dead today.

He died in a hospital last night within a few hours of his fiftieth birthday. He was born in February, Friday, the 13th, 1892, in Anamosa, Ia., the son of a Quaker family.

His "American Gothic" was one of the most notable of his paintings, but, like many other of his pictures, it aroused a storm of dissension, chiefly among his own mid-west people who did not relish the severity with which he portrayed them.

Another at which most of the nation grinned appreciatively was his "Daughters of Revolution," a picture of three dour-faced, stiff-necked, tea-drinking ladies. Members of the Daughters of the American Revolution, or many of them, did not care for it. Edward G. Robinson, the movie actor, nows owns "Daughters of Revolution."

This may surprise you: Tyger Bob Winbigler will be shooting for a new all-time season's scoring record for Mansfield high school cagers in tonight's games at Hamilton and tomorrow night's tilt at Springfield.

"Oh, sure," you say, "he's already got the record and every time he makes a point he makes a new record. So what?"

So what seems to be that he doesn't have the record yet, and he hasn't broken the old one.

Earl Morehead, who confesses to being something of a figure filbert when it comes to Mansfield high school athletic statistics of the dim and distant past, is authority for the statement that Winbigler has not yet broken the old record.

Winbigler has 203 points going into tonight's game. Everyone at the high school believed he had set a new record when he passed Gene Miller's 176 mark.

But Morehead was hard to convince. He leafed through his old high school annuals, and reported:

"Al Roth scored 211 points in 1922. Winbigler still has nine points to go for a new mark. And I wonder how many points Johnny Coss and Red Murphy and those old boys tallied in their best seasons. Of course, in those days, Roth, Coss and Murphy did all the foul shooting."

* * *

So if anyone knows of a better record than Roth's 211. Morehead and the old Podger would be glad to hear about it. I don't mind being scooped again on this record business, so long as we finally get it straight, accurate, and authentic.

The high school coaches admit they can't help on the solution of this question.

"Coach Russ Murphy took all our records with him when he left Mansfield," they explain. Incidentally, the Tygers in 1922 played 17 games, winning nine and losing eight.

And here is more scoopie on me: Mansfield Braves Hurler Chuck Byers isn't in the army after all.

Dr. Frank Maxwell tells me Chuck was in his office two weeks ago, explaining he'd been turned down by his draft board doctors in Pennsylvania, that he'd been working here all winter at Farm Tools, and that he was all set to report to Charleston in the spring.

Seems Chuck once was hit on the head by a line drive, and his noggin no longer comes up to army specifications for shapely pates.

* * *

Perhaps the medicos told him: "If you can't duck a line drive, how are you going to get out of the way of a Jap bullet?"

Plymouth Set For Butler

County Cage Loop Title At Stake Tonight.

Richland county cage loop play goes into its next to last round tonight with a three game docket slated.

Top game will match Plymouth, second spot club, with the first place Butler aggregation in a game that may determine the outcome of the final league standings.

* * *

Lucas goes to Lexington in another game and Ontario to Madison. Wednesday night the Rams came within four points of tieing Loudonville, but lost 34-30.

A Shiloh at Bellville game rounds out the slate.

Half of Tribe Roster Signed

CLEVELAND—(INS)—With the reporting date for batterymen at the Clearwater (Fla.) training camp set for Feb. 23, only ten days away, 19 men, or half of the Cleveland Indians' 1942 roster, have returned signed contracts it was announced today by Vice President Roger Peckinpaugh.

Infielders Ken Keltner and Ray Mack and Pitcher Tom Ferrick returned their contracts to the business office yesterday.

Six hurlers and two catchers are as yet unsigned but are expected to come through shortly. Only Orls Hockett and Fabian Gaffke of the nine outfielders have signed.

The first group heading south will leave Cleveland a week from tomorrow with Manager Lou Boudreau. The second squad is due to report Feb. 25.

Higher Loop Eyes Pandas

Mid-Atlantic May Give Lima Akron's Franchise.

CANTON—(AP)—Seven teams were lined up today for the Mid-Atlantic baseball season, but by Feb. 25 their number will be either eight or six.

After the New York Yankees formally withdrew their support of the Akron Yankees, the Mid-Atlantic officials decided to give Elmer Daily, president of the league, until Feb. 25 to find a replacement.

Lima, O., now a member of the Ohio State league, and Oil City, Pa., were mentioned at yesterday's meeting as possible newcomers to the loop, but Daily gave no indication of the cities or sponsors he might approach.

Oscar Barkey of Canton proposed that Akron's representation be continued by digging up another sponsor.

The league moguls, deciding the circuit should have six teams if it cannot have eight, discussed the possibility of dropping Zanesville, which was in last place in the 1941 season, but William A. Simpson of Zanesville declared his club was financially able and a better drawing card than some of the stronger teams.

Simpson said the Chicago Cubs have given assurances that a working agreement will be carried through. The Canton Terriers have a working agreement with the Boston Red Sox.

Other clubs which posted their seasonal guarantees yesterday were Youngstown, backed by the St. Louis Browns; Springfield, sponsored by the St. Louis Cardinals; Charleston, W. Va., sponsored by the Cleveland Indians; Dayton, affiliated with the Brooklyn Dodgers, and Erie, Pa., under local ownership but with arrangements for help from the Cincinnati Reds.

Roy Brandenberger, business manager of the Akron Yankees for the past three seasons, said the New York club had decided to trim its farm system. Attendance has been low at Akron, and the club was reported to have had lease trouble with the owner of the ball park.

* * *

Action on the class C league's various problems will be held in abeyance until the Feb. 25 meeting. Among subjects explored by the club officials yesterday were twilight games, effect of selective service on players, and the effect of rationing on bus transportation.

Ashland Wins First Victory

Eagles Down Kenyon In Conference Tilt.

(By Associated Press)

Ashland college had cause for celebration today.

Last night the basketball squad won its first game in 12 starts, defeating Kenyon, 53 to 49, in an Ohio Conference tilt.

The home team took advantage of a hot shooting streak and kept out of reach of the pursuing Kenyon cagers. Ashland led 17-14, 24-18, and 41-33 at the quarters. A pretty exhibition of stalling with a seven-point lead in the last three minutes clinched the victory.

At Kent the Golden Flashes toppled Penn college of Cleveland to win a 59-27 decision

Western Reserve stopped Oberlin on the Oberlin floor, 56 to 38, cutting short the home team's winning streak at four games Forward Fred Becker registered 16 of the Red Cats points and Dick Lefevre, Captain and guard at Oberlin, tallied 14.

At Morehead, Ky., Morehead college broke a long losing streak by downing Wilmington, 70 to 46 Earl Duncan of Morehead was high man with 22 points.

Sferro's, Hunt's, And Billiards Win

Rex Billiards, Sferro's Lunch and Daley's Cafe all won games in the Friendly House Senior White league last night.

High scorer for the day was Tony Augustine of Rex club, with 17 points. Trailing him was Joe Wentz of Daleys with 12 tallies and Joe Carbetta of Sferros with 15 points.

Rex beat Hunts' News, 33-28; Daleys edged Isaly Dairy, 35-32; and Sferros swamped Boston Grocery, 41-11

N. Y. U. RUNNER TURNS IN 6TH FASTEST MILE

NEW YORK—(INS)—Announcing beforehand that he would merely run "fast enough to win" Leslie MacMitchell, New York university's wonder miler, today had turned in the sixth fastest winning competitive mile ever fashioned.

MacMitchell's time was a dazzling 4:08 and he was three quarters of a lap ahead at the finish.

"I just felt good out there, I guess," was MacMitchell's explanation for his unusual time.

100 LEADING GOLFERS SET FOR TEXAS OPEN

SAN ANTONIO, Tex.—(U.P.)—More than 100 of the nation's leading professional golfers and about 35 amateurs tee off today for the opening 18-hole round of the $5,000 Texas open tournament over the Willow Springs course.

A gallery of 10,000, partly drawn by the scheduled participation of Bop Hope and Bing Crosby, Hollywood movie amateurs, was expected. The second 18-hole round will be played tomorrow with the 36-hole playoff on Sunday.

Spotlight Turns on Dodds

A Boston theological student, Gil Dodds, former Ashland, O., college athlete, has been projected into the track spotlight following his recent two-mile race against Greg Rice, the country's outstanding ace. Dodds was nipped by Rice by a scant four yards in the time of 8:52.8, extremely fast time. Dodds is shown with his wife in their Boston home.

Dodds Learns How to Run

Ashlander Profits By Lessons From Ryder.

By STEVE O'LEARY

BOSTON—(AP)—Gilbert Dodds, who pushed brilliantly into the 1942 track picture at New York's Millrose games, started to "learn how to run" only last fall after four years of campaigning on track tutoring of the correspondence school variety.

It was a windy day last autumn that the 23-year-old former Ashland (O.) college student came east from Nebraska to crafty Jack Ryder, the veteran Boston college track coach, and begged to learn at Ryder's knee the fine arts of running.

* * *

How well the veteran taught the lessons and how capably the student absorbed them were demonstrated last Saturday night when Dodds—making his second indoor two-mile start—extended gallant little Greg Rice to one of the finest competitive efforts of the barrel chested Notre Dame star's brilliant career.

* * *

That was only the beginning. Now that Ryder has shown him what he can do, the veteran coach is confident Dodds can rise to the heights.

"He's conscientious and faithful and has a judgment of pace so keen that he can run within a fraction of a second of any figure that I ask," Ryder declares.

Ryder is not amazed at his phenomenal development in the past few months, explaining that he had all the attributes of a great runner when he approached the veteran coach.

Dodd's blazing 8:53.7 in the Millrose two mile, four strides behind Rice, who was forced to run the second fastest two-mile in history, is just a sample of what is to come, Ryder says.

LENAHAN LEADS IN BASEBALL TOURNEY

MIAMI, Fla.—(AP)—Ray Lenahan, who pitched for Pittsburgh in 1918, appeared victory-bound today in the baseball players' golf championship. Headed into the final round of the 54-hole event, Lenahan had an eight-stroke edge. He added a one-over-par 73 yesterday to his par performance in the opening round for a 145.

RICK FERRELL SEES BROWNS CLIMBING UP

MIAMI, Fla.—(AP)—A quick getaway and a finish in the money are indicated for the St. Louis Browns in Rick Ferrell's personal American league form chart.

"I think we have good possibilities for a first division berth," the veteran catcher said today. "We haven't lost any key players in the draft. Outside of one or two teams, I don't see where the Browns have to concede anything to anybody in the American league."

Conn Braves 13th Jinx

Takes Chance on Louis Shot In Meeting Zale.

NEW YORK—(AP)—This could be a mighty unlucky Friday—the 13th for Sweet William Conn, the Pittsburgh pretty boy who is regarded as a very valuable piece of bric-a-brac in the fight game's show case.

Sweet William collides with Thumpiny Tony Zale in Madison Square Garden along about 10 p. m., and, while all signs point to a victory for the Smokeytown Irishman, there's always the possibility one of those accidents might happen.

If the middleweight boss pulls one of these, it would go a long way toward singing a swan song for Billy's shot at the heavyweight championship and a potential half-million-dollar gate with Joe Louis in their scheduled return match this June.

For Tony, defeat wouldn't be too tough to take. After all, he's only a middleweight and if he loses, it can be brushed off with the explanation that he didn't pick on someone his size. He expects to come in at 163 and the contracts call for Conn to weigh no more than 175.

What with Billy supposed to be somewhat peeved at Tony and Tony ditto at Billy, this shindig promises to be more than a hot game of patty-cake. Promoter Mike Jacobs figures some 12,000 or 13,000 customers will chip in to a pot of $50,000 or more.

This Could Happen Only In Hollywood

SAN FRANCISCO—(U.P.)—Pitcher Wayne Osborne of the Hollywood Stars is a holdout. He wants his salary cut.

Oscar Reichow, business manager of the Stars, told club representatives at a league meeting here he was flabbergasted by the topsy-turvy version of the traditional winter baseball salary quarrel.

"I had a bad year," Reichow quoted Osborne as saying. "I should have a cut and not the same salary I received last season. I appreciate your treatment but I will not sign this contract unless you lower my salary."

CARNEGIE TECH TO PLAY FRESHMEN

PITTSBURGH—(AP)—Carnegie Tech's football and basketball squads, rendered weak-kneed by a de-emphasis program, received a figurative "shot in the arm" today in the announcement that the Plaid's freshmen would be eligible for varsity competition.

The Engineers were the first of the Steel City's three major colleges to suspend for duration of the war the freshman rule barring first-year men from varsity sports teams. Duquesne has tabled the proposal but may adopt it. Pitt, a disciple of the Big Ten, has unofficially opposed it.

Illinois Set for Gophers

Tilt May Decide Winner of Big Ten Cage Title.

By GRAHAM HOVEY

CHICAGO—(INS)—With the myth of its invincibility shattered by inspired Indiana, the Illinois basketball team polished its high-powered attack today for the "crisis" week-end in its bid for the Big Ten conference championship.

* * *

The Illini play host to Michigan's ninth-place Wolverines at Champaign tomorrow night, and they should notch their eighth conference victory in nine games with comparative ease. But Monday, the Sophomore-studded team will take on second place Minnesota at Minneapolis in the game which should determine the conference championship.

* * *

If the Illini have shaken off the effects of their defeat by Indiana enough to get by the Wolverines and Gophers, the conference pennant is

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK—(Wide World)—Billy Conn, who is used to getting a big buildup for his fights, can't understand why he's been neglected while the publicity heat was turned on Tony Zale in building up tonight's brawl . . . Billy has been acting real mad about it and it doesn't cool him off any when Sam Pian, Zale's manager, calls him "the thin Tony Galento" . . . When Curley Lambeau, Green Bay Packers' coach, gets a speaking engagement, he takes along a check payable to the Red Cross and tells the committee in charge to fill in the figure.

BUD SAWIN discusses timing with prize pupil Patty Aspinall.

By HAROLD HARRISON

(By Wide World)

INDIANAPOLIS—Meet Charles L. (Bud) Sawin, a 33-year-old Hoosier who, without using mirrors, makes national championship swimming teams appear, disappear, and then appear again.

All this he does out here in the landlocked Middle West to the great consternation of wealthy swim clubs on both coasts.

He's been coaching swimming since 1930, but never had a full team for the women's nationals until 1939. He's won two national titles in the three years since.

His Lakeside club team in Louisville, Ky., came up from nowhere to win the national title in 1940. Then he left Lakeside and came back to coach the Riviera club team in Indianapolis.

Presto! Lakeside championship team disappeared. And presto! Riviera came up with a championship team of girls, none older than 18, who were so lightly regarded that the photographers at High Point, N. C., where the nationals were held, ignored them until they suddenly began sweeping aside all opposition.

Sawin, a carbon paper company executive, says he has done practically no competitive swimming himself He learned to swim, at 10, in the creeks and rivers around Columbus, Ind. Later his family moved to Indianapolis and Bud became a life guard at one of the city pools and played two seasons of water polo.

His first coaching job was at the Broad Ripple pool in Indianapolis. He enrolled in Butler university in 1930 and was made swimming coach. That led to a job at the Hoosier Athletic club in Indianapolis and finally to the Lakeside club in 1934.

At Lakeside Bud's first great national star was Mary Ryan, now a professional.

Sawin also tutored Ann Hardin to fame and by 1939 he had enough girls to enter a team in the nationals. They didn't win that year but in 1940 they captured the crown.

* * *

Then Sawin moved back to Indianapolis. Miss Hardin, a native of New Albany, Ind., came along. He had Patty Aspinall, already a star in her own right. He developed June and Joan Fogle and Mary Ann Walts. Also on his team was Betty Bemis of Nashwauk, Minn., a Butler university co-ed. Miss Bemis had competed in national events but never had been more than an "also ran."

In one year she became the backbone of the Riviera team.

After Bud has taught the necessary strokes, psychology enters into his teachings.

"In all races I tell my swimmers exactly how they should swim a race, and usually explain in a nonchalant way that following that plan will mean victory—as if there were no doubt about it," he said.

"After a few months the swimmer has implicit faith in the coach. With big races coming up, the swimmer goes in to them believing that if instructions are followed to the letter she will win. Naturally she is not so nervous nor beaten before she goes into the race. She is simply occupied thinking how she is to stroke, turn and pace the race. If she does it correctly, she will win."

Links Wars Aid Defense

Women Golfers To Turn Receipts to Bonds, Stamps.

CHICAGO—(AP)—Women golfers are determined, nevertheless, to carry on their links wars next summer—and to aid Uncle Sam at the same time.

Directors of the Women's Western Golf association voted to conduct a full program for 1942, scheduling the four regular championships. Inasmuch as the United States women's championship has been cancelled, the W. W. G. A. believes its events will draw entries from all sections of the nation.

All receipts from the tournaments will be donated to war relief organizations and defense bonds and stamps will be awarded as prizes.

The Western amateur will be played over the links of the San Antonio, Tex., Country club, June 22 to 27; the junior open at the St. Paul, Minn., Town and Country club, July 13 to 17, and the 72-hole medal play derby at Sunset Ridge Country club, Chicago, Aug. 10 to 13.

War or Not, They Hate Each Other

CHICAGO—(INS)—The Cubs and White Sox were agreed today there's no use trying to be friends, even for the duration of the war.

The decision to remain each other's hated rivals came as the result of a timid and tentative suggestion by General Manager James T. Gallagher of the Cubs that it would be a nice gesture if the White Sox, when they are on the road, would lease their Comiskey park to the Cubs for some night games this coming season.

That definitely was out today. The Cubs, if they're to have night games, will have to go somewhere else, not having lighting facilities in their own park, Wrigley Field.

HEISTAND STARS

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—(AP)—A field of 40 trapshooters lined up today for the last day of the Jungle Gun club's 14th annual registered shoot. Yesterday's star was Joe Heistand of Hillsboro, O., who conquered a brisk wind to break 148 out of 150 targets at 16 yards. J. R. Johnston, jr., of Hartford City, Ind., trailed by two birds.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.—Joe Muscato, 187, Buffalo, N. Y., outpointed Teddy Yarosz, 174, Monaca, Pa. (8).

JERSEY CITY, N. J.—Johnny Caruso, 147, Jersey City, outpointed Frankie Velez, 144, Puerto Rico (8).

Newspaper advertising in a nation at War

NEVER BEFORE have people turned to newspapers so eagerly, trustingly, hungrily, and in such large numbers...for all the news, for full reports, for complete details.

Total war, into which this country was forced so suddenly, has added immeasurably to the responsibility of American newspapers...a responsibility they have been quick to meet, regardless of the cost and the effort.

It is a two-fold responsibility...

A responsibility, first, to the public...to keep it fully informed in these critical days, to bring it the vital news of the day, completely, accurately and quickly.

A responsibility to advertisers, too...to give them the best means of telling their story, presenting their merchandise and services to the public where and when it will do the most good. In fulfilling this responsibility, newspapers are serving not only manufacturers and retailers who have things to sell...they are also serving the millions of readers who must continue to buy the countless things they need and want.

In newspapers the advertising is news, too... more so today than ever before. In newspapers the advertising is received as a welcome, helpful service. That is why, as The Continuing Study of Newspaper Reading shows, people read the ads as well as the news so thoroughly.

And the Study shows that big news, war news, increases the reading of newspaper ads... that when big news breaks, the advertiser can count on even closer attention to his message by even more people than in normal times.

To the men and women of this country the newspaper is more valuable today than ever before. That's what makes it so valuable a medium today for all advertisers...whether their problem is to produce more sales, build good-will, describe their part in the war program, advise consumers on the war-time use of their products, or to maintain brand identity, dealer friendship, and public acceptance for the peace-time years to come.

PAM—A Man! By A. W. Brewerton

IT CERTAINLY IS STARTLING TO THINK I--LITTLE ME--SHOULD BE CALLED UPON TO PLAY SUCH AN IMPORTANT ROLE IN OUR NATIONAL DEFENSE!
OH, I HOPE I CAN DO MY PART WELL! IT-IT'S NOT GOING TO BE EASY--TO PRETEND I'M ANOTHER PERSON! IF I MAKE SOME TERRIBLE BLUNDER I--I'LL PROBABLY GET INTO SERIOUS TROUBLE--MAY BE DISGRACED!
2-13

PAM! FOR GOODNESS SAKE! WHAT HAVE YOU GOT ON YOUR MIND? YOU'VE BEEN MOONING AROUND HERE FOR DAYS NOW!
REALLY, CLARE?
AND I'LL BET IT'S A MAN! HOW ABOUT LOOSENING UP AND TELLING A PAL?
A MAN? WELL, GUESS YOU'RE RIGHT--IN A WAY--BUT IT'S NOT WHAT YOU'RE THINKING AND--AND--WELL, I JUST CAN'T TELL YOU A THING NOW!

STOCK MARKET STRENGTHENED AFTER SLUMP

Mild Recovery Movement In Steels Starts In Spite of War Developments.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—The stock market was not particularly disturbed by the generally bearish war news today although such recovery tendencies as cropped up were notably mild.

Attracting early support were Bethlehem Steel, Youngstown Sheet, Chrysler, Woolworth and Owens-Illinois.

A trifle backward were N. Y. Central, Southern Railway, Great Northern, Sears Roebuck, General Electric, Anaconda, International Nickel and Texas Co.

Brokers again suggested sentiment was chilled by the breakthrough of Nazi battleships in the battle of the English channel. Business developments were moderately satisfactory.

Holders of merchandising shares studied the Dun & Bradstreet survey disclosing that while retail spending throughout the country this week was not as fast as in the preceding week it still topped the comparable period a year ago by 15 to 20 per cent. "Stock up" purchasing to beat possible shortages and higher prices was said to have flattened out in a number of consumers' lines.

JAP BOMBERS RAKE OWN MEN

Cause Many Casualties Among Nipponese Infantry on Luzon Island.

commander-in-chief in the Philippines has resorted to a new strategy of "attacks in relays" on Batan after having failed to overwhelm MacArthur's men by frontal assaults.

Military officials said the invaders, by sheer numerical superiority and relays of fresh troops, evidently hope to soften up the weary and outnumbered defenders preparatory to a final grand assault aimed at knocking them off the Island of Luzon.

MacArthur's forces, estimated at no more than 20,000 against more than 200,000 Japanese, must face these constantly fresh troops from the "fox holes" and jungle growth of Batan where they have fought doggedly for 67 days—knowing all the time that there was only the faintest hope of reinforcements or evacuation.

The latest word from the Philippines reported that the "particularly savage" fighting of recent days had simmered to a lull, but a lull which MacArthur said might be merely a bit of quiet before another storm of attack.

Jap Drive Against Indies Slows Down

BATAVIA —(INS)— The Japanese drive against the Netherlands East Indies slowed down momentarily today as Nippon's hordes concentrated on the battle of Singapore.

A war communique issued by the N. E. I. high command said that "enemy air activity was mainly confined to reconnaissance over the outer provinces."

Official telegraphic reports from Macassar, beleaguered south Celebes port, contradicted earlier advices that the Japanese had made a landing at Balangnipa, near the city.

Japs Defeated On Salween Front

RANGOON, Burma — (UP) — Japanese invaders recoiled today from a defeat on a Salween river front with one arm of a pincers grab toward the Burma road smashed and the other clinging to a "vulnerable" point of land which was under hammering British attack.

The Empire defenders appeared to have won their first major land victory of the war in Burma, having hurled back the Japanese at Paan, 30 miles north of Moulmein, in "heavy fighting."

In the Martaban area, across the Salween estuary from Moulmein, the Japanese in their only good foothold on the west bank, were being battered by rifle fire, bombs and bayonets.
